Gasoline Squeeze Points to a Costly Summer

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Independent gasoline retailers in the Kingston area agree that this summer will be long, hot, dry and very expensive.

Several said they may have to close down altogether unless the fuel supply picture brightens. Most agree that a single gallon of gasoline will cost between 50 cents and one dollar by summer's end.

There were no reports of local gasoline rationing, although several dealers said the supply situation may reach critical proportions this summer. One dealer said he has already been issued a monthly quota by his supplier.

In every case, the major gasoline refiners were blamed for the impending fuel shortage, and the expected hike in prices. It was the consensus that the large gasoline suppliers are either hoarding fuel for their own outlets, or deliberately reducing the supply to drive the smaller—and cheaper—competitors out of business.

Andy Imparati, who operates the Gas-Land station on Broadway, predicts that gasoline "will start climbing even before the summer begins" and will reach "one dollar a gallon by the end of the summer."

Imparati, like most other small dealers, believes that the reported fuel shortage is overexaggerated. "There's enough gas to go around," he said, "The major gas dealers are simply trying to force the small inependents out of business."

The average price per gallon of gasoline in the Kingston area is 38.9 or 39.9 cents. Imparati sells his for 35.9 cents a gallon. But he warns that "the little guy" won't be able to hold the line on those prices much longer.

"If the major dealers up their prices," he said, "we have to do it too, or they won't sell us the gas."

Special

Imparati said he is operating now on a very thin line between profit and loss, and added that he wouldn't hesitate to close down. "If gas prices go up, and business goes down, as far as I'm concerned, this station can go to hell," he said.

Edward Stoll, operator of the X-Tra station on Ulster Avenue Mall in the Town of Ulster, has already reached that decision. He told The Freeman he's running $300 "in the red" this week, and will shut down as soon as his current supply is exhausted.

"I just can't make it," he said, "The competition for gasoline is cutthroat."

Stoll's woes stem from the "margin" he's allowed by his supplier. He charges 35.9 cents a gallon, but earns only two cents a gallon for himself.

Doug Harvey, who runs the Lloyd outlet on Boices Lane near IBM, doesn't expect gasoline prices to climb much above 50 cents per gallon this summer: "I don't think you'll see a drastic jump. They'll just creep up a little bit each month."

Lloyd's is currently running on a quota system. It receives a specified amount of gasoline each month, and not a drop more. "If we run out before the end of the month," said Harvey, "we close down until a new supply comes in."

Harvey doesn't believe that Lloyd's will be forced out of business this summer because of the shortage. But the scarcity of gasoline has already taken its toll. As of Wednesday, the station closes three hours early each night to conserve gas and save money.

Leurens Mans, who runs the Hess discount station on Ulster Avenue Mall, is another who doesn't believe the reported gasoline shortage will drive the more prosperous independents out of business.

"Gas prices will climb this summer," said Mans, "there's no doubt about it. But I don't think they'll go to a dollar. But, it's hard to tell."

Mans added, "Hess won't be forced out of business. I'm sure of that. And we'll always stay at least four cents below the majors."

Shortage or not, it looks like at least some discount retailers will stay open for business. But those discounts may not mean very much after gasoline prices skyrocket, as expected, this summer.

Three Top Names Emerge as Watergate Raid Planners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Post reported today that presidential aide Jeb Stuart Magruder has admitted helping plan the Watergate raid and named then-Attorney General John N. Mitchell and White House Counsel John W. Dean III as fellow planners.

The newspaper said that Magruder, who was President Nixon's deputy campaign manager last year, poured out his story to prosecutors last Saturday and was prepared to repeat it under oath before a grand jury today.

Quoting unnamed sources in the White House and the Committee for the Re-Election of the President (CRP), the Post said Magruder had also told government attorneys that Mitchell and Dean arranged to pay hush money to the seven men convicted of the bugging raid on Democratic Committee Headquarters last June 17.

"One of the sources went so far as to say that Magruder's statements and other information developed by the prosecutors—especially regarding the payments of cash to the conspirators to plead guilty and remain silent—are expected to result in the criminal indictment of both Mitchell and Dean," the Post said.

Both Mitchell and Dean have denied repeatedly any involvement in the Watergate affair—Mitchell under oath—and Magruder testified at the Watergate trial last January he had no knowledge of the bugging.

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst withdrew himself from further participation in the Watergate investigation so he won't have to prosecute former administration colleagues should they be indicted.

Kleindienst said he withdrew from the case last Sunday because he was advised then "of information which relates to persons with whom I have had personal and professional relationships . . ."

Kleindienst, in a three-paragraph statement issued at the Justice Department, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen will take over full control of the administration's Watergate probe, reporting only to President Nixon.

This development came as rumors surged through the capital—following Nixon's own statement that "major developments" were brewing—that high administration officials might soon be indicted in the Watergate affair.

According to various government sources, about eight new indictments are anticipated.

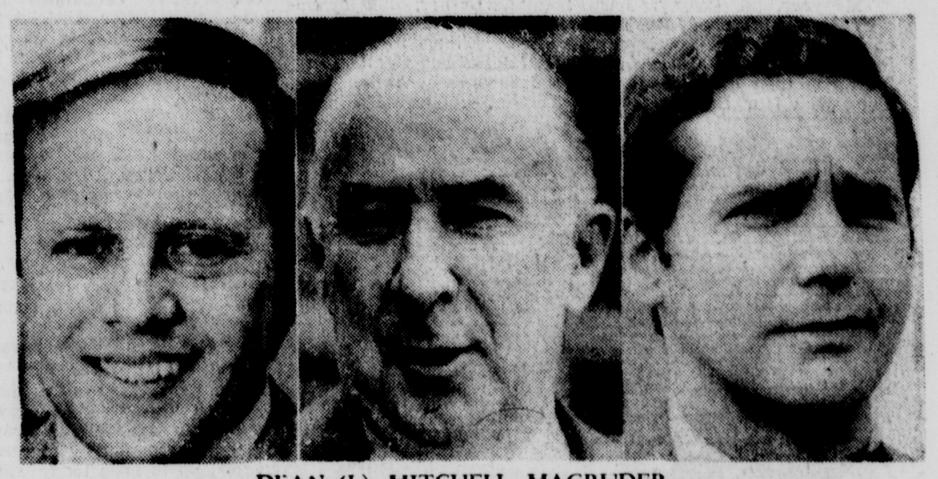

The Post said Magruder has provided a first-hand account of a meeting in Mitchell's Justice Department office in February, 1972, "to discuss and approve the illegal electronic eavesdropping operation at the Watergate."

At the time, Mitchell was the nation's chief law enforcement officer as attorney general. He left that job in March last year to officially take over the reins of the Nixon re-election campaign. He quit as campaign manager July 1, two weeks after the Watergate break-in, saying he wanted to spend more time with his family.

According to the Post story, those attending the meeting were Mitchell, Magruder, Dean and G. Gordon Liddy, who at the time was finance counsel for the Nixon campaign and who later was one of the Watergate Seven convicted in January.

If true, Magruder's story would provide crucial corroboration for the hearsay testimony of Watergate conspiratory James W. McCord Jr. McCord, who was security chief for the Nixon campaign, reportedly has told investigators that Liddy told him of such a meeting, though McCord has been unable to document it.

Liddy himself has refused to answer the grand jury's questions, earning himself a contempt sentence on top of the maximum 20 years in prison he received for the Watergate plot.

SCENE AT BANK ROBBERY
(UPI TELEPHOTO)

From Classroom to the Real Thing

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrolman Phillip Marion was attending a class on how to cope with a bank robbery involving hostages when word came that precisely that situation was in progress 18 blocks away.

One of the FBI's 10 most wanted men had already been fatally shot Wednesday and two other foiled bank robbers were holding more than 40 hostages inside a Harlem bank. Outside, more than 100 police were poised.

When the holdupmen made it clear that they wanted to surrender and asked for an unarmed policeman to come inside, Marion, 28, was selected.

He and Chris Borgen, a WCBS-TV newsman and former cop, negotiated the surrender and escorted Herman Holiday, 33, of Newark, N.J., and Frederick Kelly, 26, of Manhattan out of the bank to waiting police.

The 90-minute drama was over. "I didn't realize that I was going to put the course to use so quickly," Marion said, adding that one of the main lessons in the hostage course had been to remain cool and relaxed.

Holiday and Kelly were charged with attempted murder, robbery, possession of dangerous weapons, assault and unlawful imprisonment. The were held in lieu of $250,000 bail each for a hearing April 23.

None of the hostages was hurt and many said the robbers had taken pains to be polite and give them assurances that no harm to them was intended. "They were very nice robbers," one hostage said. Another said, "God bless you" and a third wished them good luck.

The only gunfire occurred when the third bandit, Mace Brown, 30, a condemned murderer, came out of the Chase Manhattan branch bank at Fifth Avenue and 135th Street immediately after the robbery.

Police said one of two patrolmen who had been alerted to the robbery by a passerby ordered Brown to freeze and that Brown opened fire with a 9 mm. automatic pistol. Eight return-fire police bullets struck him in the chest, groin, feet, side and wrist. He was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

Brown was depicted by the FBI as a hired killer who shot to death a potential witness in a Washington, D.C., narcotics case. Under sentence of death, he escaped from prison there last October and was put on the most wanted list.

A bystander, identified as Ernest Innis, 29, was shot in the neck during the spurt of gunfire. He was reported in good condition after surgery.

It was the second time in two weeks that the Chase Manhattan branch in Harlem had been targeted for a robbery. Last week a lone gunman wounded a guard and struck the branch manager on the head with his pistol but escaped without any money.

$510,464 Hike in Onteora School Budget

By CARL GRAHAM

WEST HURLEY

The Onteora Central School Board adopted Wednesday night a proposed $5,921,369 budget for the 1973-74 school year, up $510,464 over the current budget and subject to voter approval May 2.

More than 100 persons who showed up for an informational meeting that preceded the special board meeting in West Hurley Elementary School heard W. Jack Kahn, board president, say that several factors accounted for the increase, including higher salaries and benefits, an enrollment increase, increased staffing, higher costs of goods and services, and purchase of modular classrooms to ease overcrowding.

If approved by voters, the budget will require $3,892,471 to be raised through local property taxes. Estimated tax rates for the district's six towns, with this year's rates in parenthesis, would be $40.60 for Woodstock ($37.07); $215.18 for Olive ($20..21); $134.49 for Hurley ($23.57); $93.56 for Shandaken ($92.68); $153.54 for Marbletown ($123.36); and $71.74 for Lexington, Greene County, ($51.68).

A $3,000 budget item for purchase of a new compactor for garbage and trash attracted most of the attention at the informational meeting and led to a single dissenting vote on adoption of the budget by Peter W. Rakov, the board's vice president. Rakov said after the meeting he voted against adoption because he felt the board had been unresponsive to what he called the voters' unanimously expressed desire to drop the compactor from the budget.

Discipline dominates discussion at Onteora Candidates' Night. Story page 4.

Commenting on a $35,500 unexpended balance from the previous year, Miss Dorothy Birmingham, Onteora Teachers Association president, drew a round of applause when she told the board: "We have been told several times that we cannot get help (for needed items) because of a tight budget. We cannot accept that any longer."

Kahn said that about 90 per cent of the budget is for items required by law over which the board has no control, including salaries and benefits, building operating costs, insurance, financial expenses, and mandated minimum transportation. The remaining 10 per cent covers optional expenses including transportation beyond state minimums, interscholastic athletics, necessary travel and conference expenses and similar items, he said.

Dr. Frank M. Marlow, district superintendent, said that state aid had decreased from 48 per cent of the budget three years ago to 41 per cent this year, leaving local taxpayers with the necessity of making up the remainder. He called a talked-about 5.25 per cent increase in state aid a big "if" right now but said if it is granted it could bring the district an additional $370,000 and affect local tax rates favorably.

Marlow also noted that district enrollment was climbing, with 3,515 now enrolled and 3,615 expected next year "and I think the 3,615 estimate is conservative."

District voters will consider the budget Wednesday, May 2, from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the central school in Boiceville and the elementary schools in Woodstock, Phoenicia, and West Hurley.

Fund Cutoff for Manpower Program

KINGSTON

Ulster County's federal Public Employment Program will be phased out over the next 14 months but funds have been made available to carry the program to its June 30, 1974 completion date, according to Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago who announced a $450,883 federal allocation this week.

The program, which was instituted in 1971, was established to help alleviate unemployment in Ulster County.

In making the phase out announcement, Savago said that there will be no new positions created or any new hiring other than to fill key administrative positions as they occur.

"All efforts are being made to ensure that forced layoffs will be kept to a minimum," he added, explaining that federal regulations call for the maximum number of PEP participants possible to be placed in unsubsidized public and private positions.

Word of the final allocation came as a result of a meeting attended in New York City recently by Robert C. (Josh) Randall, county PEP administrator who met with Labor Department officials of the Regional Manpower Administration.

A total of $297,426 has been designated under Section Five of the county's environmental improvement program, a project originated by Legislator Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2.). There are currently 50 persons employed under that section.

The Section Six grant will total $153,457 covering projects in the City of Kingston and six southern Ulster County townships, Lloyd, Marlboro, Plattekill, Gardiner, New Paltz and Shawangunk. There are currently 20 employed under Section Six.

The new allocation of federal funds brings Ulster County's total grant under Section Five to $884,914 since the inception of the Emergency Employment Act in September 1971. In addition Section Six grants now totals $428,922, for a combined total of $1,313,836.

Since the program started, a total of 42 persons under Section Five have obtained permanent public employment; 75 have attained private employment and 22 returned to college, the Armed Forces and other training.

Under Section Six, 30 persons have obtained public employment; nine in private industry and four to other training or the Armed Services.

To date Ulster County has a 67 per cent placement rate under Section Five, which is 17 per cent above federal norms and a 56 per cent placement rate under Section Six of the local PEP program.

Work under the PEP program has taken many directions with environmental cleanup work established on the Esopus Creek, and leaf collections in the City of Kingston. During the bad weather months, crews were kept busy on indoor projects, making improvements on town halls and other public buildings.

Requests for environmental projects such as cleaning an eyesore area of Glenerie Falls were evaluated by the Area Manpower Council of which Savago is chairman and priorities were established with Randall assigning the number of men needed.

Praise for the program came from a number of sources with Charles J. Cole, superintendent of Kingston's Board of Public Works citing the council for its great assistance in recycling programs, cleaning up roadside litter and removing dead trees and brush along city streets.

Savago, in reviewing the program, said it has proved very successful. "Much more than our expectations. We have provided some permanent employment, helped clean up the environment and reduced the unemployment rolls."

Fish Now Included in Area Boycott

KINGSTON — "Irate Housewives" have again promised that they won't give up their fight for affordable food prices, and mapped further plans in that direction at their meeting Wednesday night.

The local consumers' group has thrown its support behind a nationwide meat boycott, scheduled for the first week in May and a nationwide fish boycott, scheduled for the second week in May.

In addition, May 5 has been set as a national day of protest against inflated food prices. Locally on that day, the "Irate Housewives" will stage a motorcade procession from Dietz Stadium to City Hall. The theme will be "do-it-yourself" home gardening as an alternative to high-priced "store-bought" foods.

Some 50 persons attended Wednesday's meeting, and most were particularly critical of local politicans and officeholders who, claim the housewives, haven't supported the fight against high food prices.

'We're serious," said Mrs. Ethel Thomas, a coordinator of "Irate Housewives." "We're not a bunch of radicals. If the politicans are too busy to support our cause, then maybe we'll be too busy to vote for them on Election Day."

New York State's two senators, James Buckley and Jacob Javits, were especially criticized for not sending representaties to either the local meeting or the nationwide meeting held in Washington recently.

Efforts were made at Wednesday's meeting to further organize the county-wide price protest. The consumers' group in Kerhonkson, representing southern Ulster County, has agreed to join the Kingston-area organization, and CAMP (Consumers Against Meat Prices), based in New Paltz, will send representatives to the next meeting of "Irate Housewives."

There was also some concern expressed Wednesday about the future of the organization itself. "We want the people to tell us whether they want us to keep fighing for them," said Mrs. Thomas. The group will conduct a public opinion poll this week to determine whether the organization should remain intact.

At a meeting attended by local representatives in Washington, D.C. last week, it was decied to form a National Consumer's Congress, with representatives from each state determining future nationwide action against soaring food costs.

Local consumers will attend a meeting in Albany Monday of "price-fighters" from upper New York State. They'll elect a representative to attend a statewide conference in New York City on April 28

At that meeting in Washington last week, consumers also voted not to endorse a proposal in the House of Representatives to roll back food prices to January, 1973 levels, and reasserted their demand that prices be frozen at 1972 levels instead.

"Irate Housewives" will next meet May 2 at 8 p.m. at the Old Dutch Church.

Ulster County Conservatives Lean to Party's Candidates

KINGSTON — Judging from this year's nominations, Ulster County Conservatives are leaning more towards endorsing their own candidates, rather than Republican candidates, a party which historically has been allied with the Conservatives.

This year, the Conservatives are endorsing nine Republicans in the races for county legislature but are also endorsing all of their own candidates along with four Democrats.

Ulster County Liberals, on the other hand, historically allied with the Democrats, are endorsing 24 Democrats, one Republican and none from their own party.

Republicans nominated by Conservatives include Charles Scala, Clifford Snyder and C. Freeman Lasher, all incumbents, in District 1; incumbent Lester C. Elmendorf and new candidate Stephen Hyatt in District 2; incumbent William West in District 4; Glenn Debrosky, another incumbent in District 6 and Brian White and James Palen in District 8.

Democrats include Richard Thornton, District 1; incumbent Lewis Kirschner, District 6 and Robert Mandia and Edgar Florsheim, new candidates in District 8.

Conservative candidates include Lewis Bolter, District 2; City Chairman Bernie Singer and Harry Graham, District 3; Dorothy Cort, Arthur Bowen, R. Douglas Taylor, District 5; Fred Goslin, William Hegeman, Alice Moffitt and Joseph Gramma Jr., District 7 and Charles DeCelles, District 8.

The Conservatives also nominated incumbent Republicans Francis J. Vogt for District Attorney, Fred H. C. DuBoics for County Treasurer and Arthur C. Chipp for Coroner.

The lone Republican nominated by the liberals is Raymond Armater, incumbent county legislator representing the city.

Democratic endorsements went to: Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Alderman-at-large T. Robert Gallo, City Judge Hubert Richter and Barry Lippman for district attorney.

Also the following Democrats who are running for the County Legislature: incumbents James Gilpatric and James Carroll, of the new District 3 (City of Kingston) and George Barthel, new District 7 (Wawarsing and Shawangunk); Eugene Perry and John Dwyer, District 3; Thomas Nyquist, George Majestic and Thomas Cotton, (District 8 (New Paltz, Gardiner, Plattekill, Lloyd and Marlboro).. Twelve of 13 Democratic Aldermen are liberal candidates.

Meanwhile, City Republican Chairman Frank Fabbie announced today that two candidates nominated at the March 14 city convention, Arthur Barnes of 38 West Chester Street, nominated for alderman in the 12th Ward and Herbert Sutton of 475 Abeel Street, nominated in the 11th Ward, have declined nomination. The Republican Committee on Vacancies, which Fabbie chairs, has nominated Richard Hoffman of 15 Purvis Street in the 11th Ward and Joseph LaLima of 35 Orchard Street in the 12th Ward.

LAST YEAR FOREST FIRES DESTROYED 200 TREES FASTER THAN YOU CAN READ THIS AD.

Unless you're a speed reader, it should take you about 20 seconds to read this ad.
Which is about 5 words per second.
Forest fire, in that same amount of time, will have ravaged and burned over 200 trees.
Which is about 2 trees for every word you read.
Or by the time you finish this sentence, 118 trees.
And does the damage add up!
In a year's time that's over 420 million trees, over 4 million acres burned, and hundreds of thousands of animals left homeless.
Not to forget the ecological havoc forest fire will have wreaked where it passed.
And it's all such a senseless waste too.
Because with only a little time, most man-caused forest fires could be prevented.
An extra second to grind out a cigaret.
Another minute to pour more water on your fire, scatter the coals, cover it with dirt.
A moment to refresh yourself on fire safety.
A few extra minutes can save years of growth.
And that's time well spent on saving our forests.
Just like reading this ad.

PLEASE: HELP PREVENT FOREST FIRES.

HUNGER STRIKE ON TAXES — George Rand, 63, of Green Bay, Wisc., went on a hunger strike in store window over Wisconsin sales tax. Rand said his store was closed for not paying $557 in back taxes. A large part of his business was selling candy at 12 cents or less on which he could not collect a sales tax. The state, however assessed the 4 per cent on the basis of overall sales. Rand considers that unfair taxation and will sit in the window until he starves or gets some help to have the tax removed. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

CONTROLS: Congress Delays Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional action on the bill to extend President Nixon's authority for wage-price controls was delayed Wednesday until at least April 30, when his current authority expires.

"We're flirting with disaster," said Sen William Proxmire, D-Wis., after the Senate rejected a parliamantary move devised by the bill's managers in an effort to rescue it from likely defeat in the House.

Later in the day, the Senate adjourned for the 12-day Easter recess which runs until April 30.

The House planned to meet Thursday with GOP leaders predicting it would be beaten if brought to a vote in its present form.

The prospect prompted Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee to try to send the measure back to the Senate-House conferees who approved it Tuesday so that it could be made more palatable to the House GOP.

That effort failed 35 to 31.

The possibility was thus created that labor and industry would be free of any wage-price limitations May 1, unless the situation can be resolved.

Republicans were balking at Democratic amendments attached to the control bill in the Senate.

Particularly, the Republicans disliked one provision that would require companies to reveal publicly their justification for raising prices, said Proxmire, adding:

"They're acting as stooges for big corporations".

House Republicans predicted the bill would lose in the House, and refused to sign a compromise House-Senate committee report Tuesday.

Wednesday, the Democratic manager of the bill, Sen. John Sparkman, of Alabama, made a motion to recommit the bill to another House-Senate committee conference.

Sparkman's motion was rejected 35 to 31, with Proxmire saying, "We'd be crawling if we passed it."

Meanwhile, the situation was clouded further by another bill on the Senate floor that conservative southerners and Republicans were trying to kill.

The measure allows federal election registration by mail, and Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., was holding up any other business until he could get agreement for a straight vote on the merits of the bill.

HANOI: Mine Halt Violation

By United Press International

The United States for the second time since the Jan. 27 signing of the Vietnam cease-fire has suspended mine clearing operations in North Vietnamese waters the Pentagon announced today, and Hanoi labeled the move a "blatant violation" of the truce.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim told a news conference in Washington the mine-sweeping operations were suspended "because of the failure of the other side to abide by the agreements and assurances of Paris . . ." and "because of continued cease-fire violations by the other side in South Vietnam and Laos...."

Friedheim would not elaborate further and did not say when the mine clearing operations were halted, but Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) monitored today in Saigon said the U.S. Navy suspended the mine sweeping Tuesday and said the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry has issued a statement denouncing the move as a "blatant violation" of the Paris agreement ending the Vietnam War.

Friedheim made his references to cease-fire violations in Laos and South Vietnam after U.S. sources in Vientiane said American bombing in Laos halted Wednesday after two days of new air strikes there to counter Communist truce violations and more post-truce fighting was reported in South Vietnam.

The first suspension of the U. S. mine-sweeping operations occurred early in March when Hanoi was accused of delaying the release of U.S. POWs. But the issue was resolved and the mine sweepers went back to work.

Radio Phnom Penh said today that Cambodian Brig. Gen. Lon Non, brother of President Lon Nol, plans a special trip to Washington soon to confer with President Nixon on the critical Cambodian situation. Political analysts in Phnom Penh consider Lon Non the "power behind the throne" in Cambodia.

Shortly after the Radio Phnom Penh broadcast of Lon Non's impending "special mission," field reports said U.S. B52 bombers pounded suspected concentrations of Communist troops again along the west bank of the Bassac River only 15 miles south of the capital.

In Vientiane, informed sources said North Vietnamese troops who overran the north Laos village of Ta Viang with tank support over the weekend retained a firm grip on the hamlet Wednesday. The sources said CIA-sponsored units were regrouping south of the village but it was not known if there were any government plans to recapture it.

Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma's government, labeling Ta Viang's takeover a violation of the Feb. 22 Laotian cease-fire, asked for and received U.S. air support to counter the Communist drive. U.S. warplanes bombed there Monday and Tuesday. U.S. sources in Vientiane said the bombing was suspended Wednesday during a lull in fighting, but they left open the possibility of more air strikes if the situation warrants.

CHINESE: Seek Quarters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Communist China's first diplomatic delegation to the United States today starts looking for permanent quarters in Washington.

Dressed in dark blue Mao suits and billed caps, the 10-member team from the People's Republic of China stepped off a U.S. commercial airliner at Dulles International Airport late Wednesday to a greeting from State Department officials.

Shortly thereafter they were taken by limousine to Washington's Mayflower Hotel where they will live until they find quarters for their "liaison office."

An American diplomatic team went to Peking for the same purpose earlier this month.

The exchange of liaison offices is the latest step in the improvement of relations between China and the United States which President Nixon advanced last year with his trip to Peking. The liaison contacts are expected to be expanded eventually into full diplomatic relations.

Han Hsu, chief of the American section in China's Foreign Ministry Protocal Office, led the delegation that arrived Wednesday. A translator said Han "expressed thanks and greetings to all Chinese-Americans and warm greetings to our American friends in this capital city of the United States of America."

About 50 American onlookers, who were waiting for other planes, witnessed the brief welcoming ceremonies. Marion Smoak, the acting chief of protocol for the State Department, introduced each of the Chinese to Arthur Hummel Jr., the deputy assistant secretary for East Asian affairs.

Ambassador Huang Chen, the former Chinese envoy to France, will head the Chinese liaison office, but he will not arrive in Washington until offices are selected. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce will head the American mission in Peking, and he is expected to go there later this month.

UN: A Windup Sought

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Diplomats sought a way today to wind up the Security Council debate on an Israeli commando raid in Beirut with a resolution that could escape a veto by big power backers of both sides.

Their chances appeared slim.

Ambassador Javier Perez de Cuellar of Peru, who is serving as president of the council for April, adjourned the debate Wednesday without setting a time for reconvening. But sources said the council could meet immediately if there was any likelihood of agreement on a resolution.

After five days debate, council sentiment was overwhelming for condemnation of Israel for the April 10 raid that Lebanon said took 12 lives. The Egyptian foreign minister, Mohamed H. Zayyat, said at least 50 persons were killed.

The United States remained opposed to any one-sided condemnation. Ambassador John A. Scali said the council could not condemn Israel while condoning Arab attacks one day earlier on an El Al plane and the Israeli Embassy in Cyprus.

Yugoslavia and Sudan were prime movers in backstage efforts to reach agreement on a resolution acceptable to everyone.

Diplomats said they believed the United States, although wary of the effect of such action on its worsening relations with the Arabs, would veto a resolution that condemned Israel alone.

But they said they feared a resolution condemning Arab guerrilla activities, even if it were coupled with condemnation of Israeli retaliation, would bring a veto from the Soviet Union and perhaps from China as well.

The Arabs are pressing for a resolution that would condemn Israel, call upon it to desist from such action in the future, warn that a repetition could bring sterner action and, in its most contentious provision:

"Call upon all states to refrain from providing any assistance which would facilitate military attacks or impede the search for a peaceful settlement."

Israeli spokesmen called this a "sanctions resolution." It could in effect bind the United States to cut off arms shipments to Israel.

Onteora Board Candidates

Discipline Major Topic at 'Night'

By CARL GRAHAM

WEST HURLEY

More than 100 persons attended a "Meet the Candidates" night Wednesday in the West Hurley Elementary School. The meeting, jointly sponsored by the Onteora Teachers Association and the PTA's of the Woodstock and West Hurley schools, followed an informational meeting and special school board meeting to adopt a budget for 1973-74.

Five candidates are running for seats now held by Douglas Gross, who is not running for reelection, and Mrs. Rosalia Sheehan, who is.

Howard Lewis opposes Richard Odenwald for Gross's seat and Mrs. Sheehan is opposed in her bid for reelection by Mrs. Beverly Britting and Rudy Hopkins.

Candidates spoke for five minutes each and then answered qustions from the audience, with discipline in the district's schools drawing the major portion of attention.

Odenwald. with four children in district schools, cited his educational background and noted that his 16 years of experience in the insurance business included planning organizational work, and handling of budgets. In response to questions from the audience he said disciplinary rules must be made perfectly clear to both students and teachers, and called for abolition of the written pass system used to control student travel in buildings during class hours.

Lewis, holder of a master's degree in journalism and employed as a consultant by the Social Security Administration, cited several studies he had made for the district on transportation safety, college studies for high school students, and the impact of television on education.

Lewis said that discipline was his primary concern as a candidate and called for a graded system of disciplinary measures to meet various conduct problems.

Hopkins, who resigned in 1972 after teaching English for six years at Onteora Central High School, said he was disturbed by so many unanimous decisions by the school board and said he felt board policies should be re-evaluated. He called for elimination of suspension as a disciplinary measure and called for abolition of the pass system.

Mrs. Sheehan, a district resident for 23 years and a board member for the past three years, has been active in PTA and Girl Scout affairs. She said she believes in strong discipline and that it is a necessary ingredient in a strong educational system. She said she favored retention of the pass system.

Mrs. Britting, a registered nurse, has almost completed work on a master's degree in library science and is employed by Kingston school district as a librarian. Mrs. Britting, whose husband is a guidance counselor in the Onteora district, said in response to a question from the audience that she felt no conflict of interest was involved because of her husband's position and that although there might be times when she would abstain from voting she felt the problem was not sufficient to prevent her from serving effectively on the board.

The meeting was the second of three scheduled for voters in the district. The final candidate night will be held Monday, April 30 in the Bennett Elementary School in Boiceville.

Public Safety Budget Increase Asked by Ellenville Taxpayers

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

A short-handed Ellenville Village Board had three public hearings scheduled for Wednesday night, and held two of them plus a regular meeting, with all action deferred until the board next meets April 30.

Public hearings were held on the 1973-74 budget, which shows an increase, and the closing of the village landfill to other than village residents. A public hearing on changes in the zoning law to allow Town of Wawarsing Councilman Frank Sahler to build a high-rise condominium complex in the village was adjourned at Sahler's request.

Of the five-member village board, only Mayor Robert Dowling and Trustees Stanley Kaplan and Robert Woodhouse were present. Absent were trustees Sol Sandler and Louis Shore. Sahler asked that the hearing be adjourned until a full board was present.

The proposed 1973-74 budget is up about $20,000 over the present budget, and totals $674,170.61. In a rare occurence, the taxpayers present asked that the budget be increased in the area of public safety to allow for the hiring of more policemen for Ellenville's undermanned police department.

The tentative tax rate for village residents if the proposed budget is passed as is would be $38.12 per thousand of assesed valuation, up $2.94 per thousand from the present rate.

The public safety budget is already up nearly $20,000 over present figures, but those present at the meeting wanted it raised still higher. According to Police Chief William C. Trapnell, the big items which put his dpeartment in the red this year — and it did run in the red — were overtime and uniform allowance. The uniform allowance is mandated by the contract the Ellenville police have with the village. Trapnell said the overtime was the result of lack of staff, a lack in part caused by the benefits in the contract.

Federal revenue sharing money was not listed as income in the budget, Dowling and Village Treasurer Joseph Galandiuk maintaing it was entirely separate and not a budget item. It is reflected in the budget, however the intitials RS taking the place of numbers in line items for which the village had to budget $19,300 for this year.

The proposed law to restrict the use of the village landfill to village residents and refuse drew no opposition at all.

The hearings were all adjourned until April 30. The budget will be heard again at 7:30 p.m., the landfill at 8, and the Sahler zoning change at 8:30.

PETER PREISER

Realizes Correction Problems

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Self-assured and knowledgeable, familiar with the avenues of power at the capital, Peter Preiser nevertheless harbors few illusions about the difficulties he faces as the new correctional services commissioner—probably the second-most sensitive position in state government.

"What we have before us really is a whole uncharted course as far as dealing with people" he said regarding his new assignment as the man to lead New York State across what outgoing commissioner Russell G. Oswald has called "the threshold of a new era in criminal justice and correctional service."

The new commissioner, tall, bespectacled, talkative and young-looking at 41, spoke in an interview about himself and about what he thought a correctional system should be, but he stressed that his prime concern when he takes over Oswald's office May 1 will be the safety of the Correctional Services Department's 9,000 employes.

"The first thing I want to be certain of is the safety of those people," he said. "That prison guard coming to work with his lunch pail, he's relaxed and there to do a job. If he's continually apprehensive, not only have you failed him, you've failed the inmate as well, because that guard can't do his job."

Preiser, now state director of probation, would not comment on Oswald's handling of the Attica prison uprising, the tragedy that darkened Oswald's tenure as commissioner. But he said he agreed with the departing prison chief that some outside agitators have focused their activities on the nation's prisons.

"I think it's a matter of these groups and and persons becoming aware of the correctional system as a social institution."

How can New York State improve its 21-facility correctional system?

"I think we have to move more toward community-based facilities. It's kind of ridiculous to take a chap from Bedford-Stuyvesant and send him halfway across the state and call that corrections. You could call it storage.

"It's not really corrections unless you are in a position to work with him in a setting in which he has at least some of his time in the community."

The department is experimenting with so-called community correctional centers, urban facilities in which convicts nearing their release dates are housed while they work, go to school or simply visit relatives in the community.

The legislature's fiscal committees rejected the department request for funds to expand the program immediately throughout the state, but Preiser will not fault the lawmakers.

"I believe they did that because the plan wasn't far enough advanced. The centers the department has now aren't even filled."

The new commissioner thinks he knows how he can deliver for a department that has perennially been a stepchild in the state budget—deliver funds for the community center program and for the entire, expensive corrections master plan.

The nine-year blueprint could revolutionize the corrections field by setting up a sophisticated inmate classification system that would be used to pair prisoners with institutions, which through their program and security facilities would be keyed to certain types of inmates.

"An old federal administrator said to me years ago, 'The man with the plan gets the pan'," said Preiser.

"'I firmly believe that if you have a plan that makes sense, with enough detail to show the legislature exactly how we're going to do it, I don't think I'll have that much trouble advancing the program.

"I do know, for example, that in previous years the Corrections budget has not been that well documented or well argued."

Preiser speculated that a state takeover of county jails and penitentiaries would facilitate the transition to a community-based system. But he conceded that such a move would probably meet stiff local opposition in most counties.

Pushing Out Mansfield

For a dozen years, Senator Mike Mansfield has been majority leader of the U. S. Senate. He has held the title longer than any man before him. Following Lyndon B. Johnson in the post, his quiet, determined persuasiveness has been notable after the arm twisting, bombast and conviction of his Texas predecessor. Yet one month past his seventieth birthday, there is a definite movement to push him out as "too tired" for leadership.

True, Mansfield has preferred to be regarded as a "coordinator" of the Senate, but he is the undisputed Majority Leader and no doubt about it. As Democratic Whip to Johnson as Leader, Mansfield marshaled the troops to cast the votes that Johnson needed. He was the workman to Johnson's chieftain. And when he rose to the top rung, he found Hubert H. Humphrey an ambitious Whip who served Johnson as Vice-President.

Now, Senate Democrats are engaged in a power struggle with President Nixon. The first battle in this war was staged over the President's veto of the $2.6 billion authorization for vocational rehabilitation of the handicapped, the first test of the contest over spending power. The Democrats' loss by four votes aroused many who blamed it on Mansfield.

As is usual, the bill had a floor manager other than the leadership. It was California Senator Alan Cranston's job to assemble the majority that could have overridden the veto. Helping him, if he needed help, usually the party whip would be called on. He is Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia.

Perhaps the real cause of the failure to override the veto was in the Democrats who voted for it and how they felt about spending that much money for such a purpose. Among the five Democrats were two key influential Southerners—John L. McClellan of Arkansas, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and Herman E. Talmage of Georgia, chairman of the Agricultural Committee.

Mansfield is expected to retire in 1976, after 26 years in the Senate, and the scramble for his mantle is already underway. Byrd and Humphrey, the two who served as whips to Mansfield, are grappling for position.

Northeast Oil Deposits

The Department of the Interior is awaiting resolution of a suit by 13 Eastern states which seek to return to the individual states all mineral rights on the Outer Continental Shelf. The U. S. Geological Survey then plans to sink 10 to 15 core borings into the floor of the ocean in the northern parts of the Continental Shelf near Canada. They will seek to determine whether the rich petroleum fields on and near Sable Island, off Canada, extend south along the United States.

Sedimentary deposits with an oil-bearing potential that may be as rich as those off Louisiana, Texas, and California, have been found 30 to 50 miles off Long Island. The Survey finds the deposits are at least twice as extensive as any previously known in the area.

Officials of many of the country's leading oil companies are prepared to begin work in the Atlantic waters as soon as leases are let. A possible need for an "environmental impact" statement may delay sampling, as concern has been expressed over the danger of pollution.

No official would venture any predictions of the potential size of the Atlantic reserves, but a private group, the Potential Gas Agency has arrived at a prediction, using private industry and Geological Survey data. David M. Evans, director of the agency, said that 36 trillion cubic feet of natural gas is believed to exist in the Atlantic Outer Continental Shelf. This compares favorably with the 33 trillion cubic feet in all the California offshore fields. It is drafted by the 327 trillion cubic feet in the Alaska North Slope fields, but is "far more accessible" than the Alaska reserves.

Maybe if we're lucky, the energy squeeze may be settled nearer home, but major objections by environmentalists could block development for some time.

ACUPUNCTURE APPROVED — Nevada will be the first state in the nation to sanction the use of acupuncture on a full-scale basis, when a bill passed by the legislature is signed by the governor. Persons experienced in Chinese medicine will be licensed for the practice.

BAN TIMBER EXPORTS — West Coast dock workers are holding one-day work stoppages to protest timber exports, as a cause of the high lumber prices in the United States. The stop-work ban is in sympathy with the National Association of Homeowners, who see homes being priced out of the market.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Haldeman Had a Roll of Bills

WASHINGTON — Secret grand jury testimony reveals that H. R. Haldeman, the White House domo, ordered $350,000 in $20, $50 and $100 bills locked in a White House safe during the 1972 campaign.

After the election, the cash was delivered surreptitiously to a campaign aide with Haldeman's approval, in an apparent violation of the new disclosure law.

This is the sworn testimony of Haldeman's loyal former assistant, Gordon Strachan, who picked up the money the day before the disclosure law went into effect. He recieved it from Hugh Sloan, the campaign treasurer, but returned it to Fred LaRue, a campaign aide, at his Watergate apartment.

It took Strachan 45 minutes, he testified, to count all the cash. Yet no receipt was asked and none was given. He quoted LaRue as saying merely: "I'll take care of this."

The money was supposed to be used, explained Strachan, for polling. He acknowledged that the President's campaign committee was already conducting "a very, very extensive polling operation." Yet $350,000 was taken away from the committee and stashed in the White House, he said, "in case we needed to get even more polling."

"Who told you to go to Mr. LaRue and give him the money?" asked Seymour Glanzer, an assistant U.S. attorney.

"I decided that myself," said Strachan.

Haldeman's Role

"Did you discuss this incident with anybody afterwards?" pressed Glanzer.

"Yes, I told Mr. Haldeman afterwards that I had given the money to Mr. LaRue."

"What did he say to you?"

"Fine," Strachan quoted Haldeman as saying.

"Does the . . . Committee to Re-Elect the President conduct its business in Mr. LaRue's apartnent?" demanded the prosecutor.

"No," said Strachan. "It was a matter of courtesy. He's a senior official. He asked me to drop it by after work . . ."

"Do you have any idea why Mr. LaRue asked you to return this money to his apartment, where actually you could just walk across 17th Street?" asked the grand jury foreman.

"No, I do not," said the witness.

"I mean, I find it somewhat dangerous for a person to be carrying this amount of money in Washington in the evening . . . ." said the foreman, "when it would have been much easier and handier just to walk across 17th Street."

Is 'Proper' Improper?

"I agree and I was nervous doing it, but I did it," shrugged Strachan.

"Did it occur to you at the time," broke in another juror, "that it was not the proper way to do it?"

"Well, 'Proper' is not —" stammered Strachan.

"Is 'proper' an obsolete word these days?" snapped the juror.

"No", said Strachan. "Whether it was proper or improper, I was asked to return the money. I returned the money and he asked me to deliver it to him at his home, and I did that."

The foreman seemed incredulous. "I'm still puzzled," he said. "You get the money from the treasurer or whatever Mr. Sloan's position was in the committee . . . and the money sits for seven months. Then Mr. Haldeman decides it has to go back to the committee. You call Mr. LaRue — you don't call Mr. Sloan and say, 'Hugh, seven months ago you gave me this $350,000 and we haven't used any of it; I'd like to give it back to you since I got it from you,' but you call Mr. LaRue."

First Strachan said it was because Sloan had left the committee. When asked why he didn't return it to his successor, he said: "I honestly don't know."

Then Glanzer resumed the questioning. "Have you talked to Mr. Haldeman in the last couple of weeks?" he asked.

'My Orders'

"Yes, I have," replied Strachan.

"About your appearance before the grand jury?"

"Yes, I have."

"What did you say to him and what did he say to you?" pressed the prosecutor.

"He told me," replied Strachan, "to tell the absolute truth and to not worry about any political consequences. And those are my orders. . ."

"Is there any reason," demanded Glanzer, "why Mr. Haldeman would have to urge you to tell the truth?"

"No, there's no reason," said Strachan, "except it's a matter of real concern, the political damage that has resulted from this."

The handsome Strachan had one final word about Haldeman. "He's a man," said Strachan, "I admire very much."

Herrnstein's Travail

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

The current issue of Commentary magazine has in it a wonderfully optimistic article about the economic strides of the Negro population during the decade of the 1960's which anyone aching for a whiff of optimism ought to read, particularly in anticipation of hearing a speech by, say, Julian Bond, who becomes progressively lugubrious in direct proportion as the Negro people advance along the social and economic scale. That article has been widely reported on: not so another article in the same issue of Commentary by Richard Herrnstein, the Harvard psychologist who wrote provocatively in the summer of 1971 summarizing the researches on IQ.

What then happened to Herrnstein is vividly described.

Soon after the publication of his article, the radicals at Harvard launched a long campaign of harassment. Posters featuring Professor Herrnstein sprang up all over the place: "Wanted For Racism." I might add that similiar posters were distributed at Northeastern University in Boston when I spoke there recently, featuring however not the professor but my amiable self and listing among my sins the support I have given the "theories of Herrnstein" which theories as it happens I have not written about.

Students would enter his lecture hall, distribute anti-Herrnstein diatribes, seek to monopolize the question after he was through. The undergraduate newspaper devoted lasvicious attention to the persecution of Herrnstein and finally editorialized, taking issue with a hundred professors who deplored the incivility to Herrnstein and the implications of it to academic freedom. After all, said the Crimson, you can't always distinguish between theory and policy. The reader is left to infer that Herrnstein's theories imply obnoxious policies of a racist character.

And so it went for the balance of the year. Mr. Herrnstein went to the University of Iowa and it was simply impossible to deliver the lecture he went there to deliver — a mathematical account of the learned responses of pigeons.

The SDS toughs, high on ignorance, had come in from all over the region, had stormed into the lecture hall leaving no room for the scholarly audience; and the University Administratiion, faithful to the undeviating standard of pusillanimity set by the administration of Harvard (where a Pro-Vietnam student group was prevented from holding a session) and Yale (where General Westmoreland was prevented from speaking) did nothing.

Meanwhile Professor Herrnstein had also been invited to speak at Princeton. When he learned that the administration would make no effort to give him the only kind of shelter that makes it possible to speak seriously, and that the punks had announced their intention of surrounding him physically until he had given them satisfaction — he cancelled out. The Administration of Princeton was furious — with a few conservatives on campus for protesting Princeton's incapacity to provide effective hospitality for an out-of-town scholar.

And what is the fuss all about? There is not a shred of "racism" in any orthodox senses in the work of Professor Herrnstein. But what he has done is point to some of the implications of liberal doctrine up against what is now about the heritability of intelligence. It isn't true that a mother and father of extra-high I.Q. will necessarily have children with extra high I.Q.'s What is true is that a considerable percentage of the time they will. That is a gentic factor, the complement of which is the environmental factor.

Herrnstein's Law, if I might put it so, is that the greater the success you have in eliminating environmental differences, the more clearly genetic differences will figure. If (assuming it were possible) every American child were exposed to identical teachers, schools, homes, encouragement, and opportunities, the residual differences in social achievement would then trace directly to genetic factors, the manipulation of which it has not yet been suggested that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is competent to cope with.

Herrnstein's closing words suggest the frustration he has visited on orthodox liberals. "The false belief in the equality of human endowment leads to rigid, inflexible expectations, often doomed to frustration, hence to anger. Ever more shrilly, we call on our educational and social institutions to make everyone the same, when we should instead be trying to mold our institutions around the inescapable limitations and variations of human ablilty.

Democrats May Reap Whirlwind

By MARTIN F. NOLAN

WASHNGTON — Like urchins everywhere, members of Congress fasten on the vision of the Easter Bunny. The rabbit's appearance not only signifies solace from temporal cares, but a whole week of no more schoolbells, no more books, no more Nixon's dirty looks.

The 93rd Congress, in its first recess, will presumably look for some sign as to whether constituents support the President and his pledge to veto "big-spending" bills or not.

Democratic leaders in the House have a plan to deal with the expected whirlwind of vetoes from the White House. Since they know that Mr. Nixon is adamant, they hope to choose at least one veto message they can override with a two-thirds vote.

The first stirrings of public opinion on the President's veto attitude seems to support the White House. Who wants new taxes, after all?

So the plight of the handicapped — vetoed gained minimal sympathy. The next big veto will probably be Mr. Nixon's turndown of the Older Americans Act, aimed at increasing aid to the elderly. Since younger Americans somehow avoid the thought that they too, will be old, President Nixon can probably count on apahty on this issue, too.

An outcry on behalf of any social welfare program looks exremely unlikely for 1973, which is why the President seems so serene at this Eastertime and the Congress seems so disorganized.

But 1974 may be a different story. The political atmosphere then will be post-Watergate, post-recession (maybe), and certainnly post-REAP.

Post-REAP? A breakfast cereal? No, the Rural Environmental Assistance Program, an outlay of $225 million to help farmers cure soil erosion.

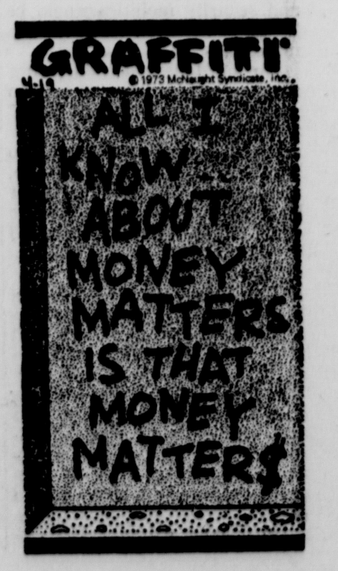

The New Deal program has been called wasteful in the past, but environmentalists call it necesaary. The bill passed by the House February 7 commands the Secretary of Agriculture to spend the money, even though the President announced termination of the program last December 26.

Minority Leader Gerald Ford warned the House that "I have good reason to believe the President will veto the bill," but 52 of his Republicans abandoned him to vote for REAP.

The vote was 251-142, only 11 votes shy of the two-thirds needed to override. Defecting from the Presidential will on the issue were such stalwarts as Tom Railsback, R-Ill., William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, the entire Kansas delegation, Tim Lee Carter, R-Ken., Albert H. Quie, R-Minn. and Louis Wyman and James Cleveland, R-N.H. A Presidential veto will ask them to change their vote.

Most of those 52 Republicans will be facing a Democratic opponent next year, who will ask whether and why they flip-flopped on REAP, voting for the farmer's interest in February, but rubber-stamping Richard Nixon's will in May.

REAP was designed in 1936 to refertilize the soil against whirlwinds and duststorms. In 1974, the Democrats may have a chance to reap the whirlwinds.

Early Release For Local Woman

POUGHKEEPSIE — Carole Bodie, 25, of Weste Pierpont Street, Kingston, convicted of a class A misdemeanor and a Class D felony in Dutchess County Court last month after a shootout with Poughkeepsie police last summer in which a man was killed, could have been sentenced to a maximum of eight years in jail, wound up being sentenced to 11 months 27 days in the Dutchess County Jail and should be out in less than 30 days due to time off for good behavior and previous time served.

Dutchess County Judge Joseph Jiudice sentenced the 25-year-old Kingston woman to "11-27" on Wednesday after her conviction on reckless endangerment, a Class A misdemeanor and possession of weapons, dangerous instruments and appliances, a Class D felony.

The shootout occurred on the night of July 18 when Poughkeepsie Detectives Julian Chickering and Stanley Dahowski stopped a car driven by Henry Williams in which Miss Bodie was a passenger. The Bodie woman leaped from the car and summoned Williams' younger brother Michael, 26, and when she returned allegedly picked up Dahowski's service revolver knocked loose in a struggle with the elder Williams, and fired a shot at Dahowski. After missing Dahowski, she allegedly threw the gun to the elder Williams who held the policemen at bay while the trio attempted to escape. Detective Chickering then drew his gun and killed Williams.

Miss Bodie has been in the Dutchess County Jail ever since and that time counts toward her sentence. "We don't have the exact figure," a spokesman from the Dutchess County Jail told The Freeman today, "but with time off for time served and 55 days off for good behavior, she should be out in about 28 days."

A Con-Ed spokesman said the company had not yet received official word Wednesday but he added: "We anticipated we would be receiving the license about this time."

Hearings on a Con-Ed application for a full operating license are under way before the AEC's atomic safety and licensing board.

Check Case

Marty Martuscelli, 30, of 149 Tinker Street, Woodstock, was arrested Wednesday by Sheriff's deputies on four counts of issuing a bad check. Deputies said the checks had been made out to Frank Rinaldo of the New Paltz Pet Shop. Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, Martuscelli was released on $250 bail pending a reappearance on April 30.

YOUNG GOP IN ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) seated center, explained the day's legislative business to Ann Martin (L), David Kaplan and Maretta Gessner, of Ulster County, members of the State Association of Area Republicans. The three young people recently attended meetings of the Committee on Governmental Employes and the Judiciary Committee before sitting in on a session of the full Assembly where Bell introduced them to that body.

Galloping Inflation Zooms At Rate of Six Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today reported the economy advanced at a rapid rate of 14.3 per cent during the first quarter of the year, with inflation soaring at a rate of 6 per cent.

The Commerce Department said the country's gross national product rose $40.6 billion from January through March to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.235 trillion.

The increase compares with a GNP advance in the fourth quarter of last year of $30.9 billion or 11 per cent at an annual rate.

The gross national product is the value of the nation's output of goods and services and is the broadest indication of the economy's performance.

Without the rate of inflation of 6 per cent, the real output during the first quarter was 7.9 per cent, compared with real growth of 8 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1972.

But the rate of inflation of 6 per cent during the period was bad news for the economy. It was the biggest quarterly jump since the fourth quarter of 1970 when it was 6.3 per cent.

The 14.3 per cent increase in the GNP equaled the increase in the first quarter of 1971 when the economy was recovering from a General Motors strike and from a recession.

The government economic goals for 1973 are for an increase of 10 per cent in the GNP, including 2½ per cent inflation, but the quarterly figure showed the rate of inflation was more than double the administration's goal.

Consumer expenditures accounted for a major portion of the first-quarter increase. They were up $28 billion in the first quarter, compared with $17.1 billion in the fourth quarter last year.

Purchases of durable goods increased $9.3 billion compared with the increase of $2.2 billion in the previous quarter, and purchases of autos and related equipment were up $4.8 billion.

New car sales reached 12.5 million units at an annual rate.

Other increases in the consumer category were nondurable goods, up $12.5 billion, compared with $8.4 billion in the fourth quarter; spending on food, up $6.2 billion; spending on clothing, up $3.5 billion and spending on services, up $6.2 billion.

'Two at Fault,' Albany Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — An Albany County grand jury report opened Wednesday cleared three state legislators of any wrong doing during an incident at the Albany Medical Center but found that two other lawmakers acted in a "boisterous and obscene" manner.

The four-page report said the two legislators behaved in a manner "potentially harmful to themselves and other patients."

None of the lawmakers were identified.

A grand jury probe of the Feb. 27 incident had been conducted by District Attorney Arnold W. Proskin after reports that a 20 - year - old female technician had been the target of "horseplay" from a group of legislators.

The five lawmakers had gone to the hospital for a free cardiovascular examination.

The report suggested that legislative leaders look into the matter "and that appropriate steps be taken."

The report said that one of the legislators put his arms around the technician and carried her from an office to a hallway. He then made suggestive remarks and asked her "in words or substance" whether she was a virgin, the report said.

It claimed that the other lawmaker had "expressed concern over what would happen if he unplugged an electric defibrilator"—a machine used for dying cardiac patients.

The report said that one of the legislators also pinched the technician.

West Point Investigation

WEST POINT, N. Y. (UPI)— An investigation into cheating at the U. S. Military Academy has resulted in a fifth cadet being found guilty of violating the honor code, a spokesman disclosed today.

The spokesman said the fifth cadet, like the four found guilty earlier in the week, was brought before the Honor Committee in connection with a violation "in the academic area."

The spokesman, Lt. Col. Patrick Dionne, said the four cadets had been accused of violating the strict code "in the academic area." He declined to say whether the cheating appeared to be organized or whether it stemmed from a specific incident.

Dionne, public information officer at the academy, said the names of those accused would not be made public.

Headed Bard College

Episcopal Clergyman Subject of Study

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON — The Episcopal clergyman who headed the college at Annandale 40 years ago worried about the breakdown of urban life; was concerned with the disintegrating effect of the auto on family solidarity; and considered the teaching of ethical values the main purpose of higher education.

He was the Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, "warden" of what was then St. Stephen's College, later renamed Bard College.

And he is the subject of a critical study written for a forthcoming issue of the college's alumni magazine by Alfred E. Everett, a 1924 Bard graduate.

Everett served as headmaster of the Brunswick School, Greenwich, Conn. for 25 years until his retirement in 1969.

St. Stephen's was then affiliated with Columbia University and, snce its establishment in 1860, had trained young men who would later enter the seminaries of the Episcopal Church.

Enrollment had never exceeded 100. At the end of World War I, when trustees invited Dr. Bell to the college, there were 28 students and eight faculty members; the State Department of Education was threatening to withdraw the college's charter.

Bell's impact on the scene was visible almost immediately, with renovation of a dormitory and the beginning of work on the college gymnasium, erected as a memorial to members of the campus community killed during the war.

He handled admissions personally and, in 1920, 40 freshmen entered, more than doubling the size of the student body.

Bell was strongly influenced by colleges in Oxford and Cambridge, England, says Everett. He defined them as "men factories."

For the first three years Bell ran the college almost singlehandedly, delegating authority reluctantly. He was stated as being uncompromising and controversial, and his insistence on the use of the Catholic version of the Anglican mass in chapel led to a violent schism between the two factions of the church represented on campus.

There was a traumatic student strike in 1926, an event unheard of in those days.

But he was a good fund raiser, finding two men who became most generous benefactors — Edward F. Albee and Haley Fiske.

Albee, president of the Keith-Albee theaters, supplied funds to build three dormitories, known collectively as Warden Halls. He and Fiske, then president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, financed a complex of buildings that doubled the college's classrooms, laboratory, and dormitory space.

Dr. Bell refused to compromise on his expansive spending and he resigned in 1933 when the Depression struck its hardest.

So he moved to the University of Chicago and published books. He died in 1958 and is buried in the Bard College cemetery.

Everett calls him "an original, unconventional and forceful thinker, one of the most eloquent voices of his generation." He left Annandale predicting that the college could not function without him. But it continued as Bard College, with a radically different direction and philosophy.

Names Sought Of Korean Vets

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — The Republic of Korea is seeking names of American military veterans who served in Korea since August, 1945, to thank them for helping Korea gain its freedom.

Korea veterans are asked to send their name and current address, dates of service in Korea, military unit and rank to Korean Light, Inc., P.O. Box 36, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93102.

They will receive a personalized letter of thanks from the Korean government as part of Korea's commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the armistice between The Republic of Korea and Communist North Korea this July.

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

From Eugene Bertin in the Pennsylvania School Journal, we read this note said to have been written by a Philippino teacher, addressed to: "The Honorable School Board of Manila." "This is my resigning; the hours are many, the work are many, the children are very, very much, and the pay are few. All the time the principal are making love to me . . . to which I reply, Oh, No! Hoping you are the same, Sincerely yours, (Name of teacher)." She made herself clear anyway, but we come more to the point: For excellent service and tremendous value, this is the place!

Red Hook, Tivoli Villages Hold Line

RED HOOK

The Villages of Red Hook and Tivoli have adopted budgets for the 1973-74 fiscal yea that are reflective of belt-tightening locally, with no significant tax rate increases seen.

In Red Hook, the board of trustees adopted a $163,722 total budget, with the estimated tax rate to remain at $44 per thousand dollars assessed valuation.

And in Tivoli, the total is up about $14,000 from this past year, but this is asborbed by the addition of federal revenue sharing funds and the tax rate will be $58.32 per $1,000. The total budget figure is $113,968.

The public hearings were sparsely attended.

Mayor Miller D. Magley of Red Hook backed up a decision to give employes a cost of living pay increase in answer to questions, including raising the village clerk's salary $200 to $8,800.

He explained that a line by line review of the budget can be confusing because some categories have been aided by federal revenue sharing funds, which must be kept in a separate fund in bookkeeping.

The Village of Tivoli also relied on the revenue sharing funds of some $15,000 expected for the year to keep the rate constant.

The village will be forced to purchase tax anticipation notes, however, because of the late arrival of some state aid. The Penn Central Railroad owes the village about $9,000 in taxes plus $1,000 in interest on its riverfront property.

Bard Director Wins Fellowship

Matt Phillips, professor of art and director of the Procter Art Center at Bard College, has been awarded a $10,000 Guggenheim Fellowship.

The grant was one of three in graphics announced by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation.

He is the third member of Bard's art faculty to receive Guggenheim grants in three years. Fellowships were awarded to Murray R. Reich, assistant professor of art, in 1971; and to James H. Sullivan, associate professor of art, in 1972.

Phillips plans an eight-month leave from his duties at Bard beginning Jan. 1, 1974, devoting the period to painting, graphics, book illustration and travel.

Bard President Reamer Kline has expressed the college's thanks for the Guggenheim Foundation's recognition of Phillips' work, and the added honor to the college in the fact that three art faculty members have been so recognized.

A leading contemporary monotypist, Phillips was mentioned in two recent issues of Art News as "a master of the medium" and "a key figure in the changing climate...whose unflagging interests have brought the monotype out into the open."

His work is represented in the collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; Library of Congress; National Gallery; Whitney Museum; Philadelphia Museum; and others throughout the country. His was among four monotypists selected for the Smithsonian Institute's 1972 travelling exhibition.

Variance Bids Get Gardiner OK

TOWN OF GARDINER

The Gardiner Planning Board recommended approval of four requests for variances but withheld decision on three requests for subdivisions pending further information at Tuesday night's meeting of the board at the Tuthilltown Meeting Hall.

Planning Board Chairman Alexander J. Soutar said that the board recommended approval (to the town board) of requests from:

- Joseph Wild of Albany Post Road to establish a welding shop on his property;
- Joseph Hauge of Sandhill Road to establish a book store on property he owns on Sandhill Road;
- Gary Decker for construction of a pole barn for horse riding instructions on land he owns morth of the junction of Route 44-55;
- John and Karen Loeb of South Mountain Road for the establishment of a summer camp.

Also: Alfred Stokes of Albany Post Road was asked to submit final plans on a 19-lot subdivision he plans off Albany Post Road. The board, reviewing preliminary plans last night, recommended changes in road patterns in the subdivision.

George Mead, an area real estate developer, requested information on a 300-acre subdivision off Brunswick Road, while seeking a variance on a five acre piece of property in the same location to convert farm buildings into residences. The board reserved decision.

Vincent Pamarico sought approval for a 48-lot development off Brunswick Road but was asked to get approvals from the County Health Department on sewage facilities for the project.

Randall Brooks of McKinstry Road asked for a road right of way through one of the lots in a subdivision he owns. The board refused that but gave him permission to combine two one-acre lots into one two-acre lot, serving the same purpose.

Following the meeting, the board held its annual reorganization meeting. Souter stepped down as chairman as did Michae. Moran as secretary. Gerald Bart was elected chairman, Jaquas Maes was elected vice chairman and Mary Ellen Rebhan was elected secretary. All will serve one-year terms.

State Can't Match Local School Budgets

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The computers are still grinding out the answers to how much the legislature will increase state aid to education, but fiscal experts agreee there is no chance the state can match the growth of local school district budgets.

Local school administrators in many of the 758 districts in the state are under the pressure of having to submit a budget to the voters by mid - May, and they are saying if state is not increased substantially, local taxpayers may have to deal with tax increases of up to 30 per cent.

A frequently mentioned hike in state education assistance is a 5.5 per cent "cost-of-living" adjustment which would amount to $100 million. Many experts, however, say they doubt the increase will be that much.

Figures from the Education Department show however, that the total state and local expenditures for schools has been growing by at least $400 million a year for the last four years, and there is little likelihood that that rate of increase will slacken off.

That adds up to higher local school taxes in many districts.

Governor Rockefeller's budget, already approved by the legislature, includes a $98 million hike in state education dollars. However, staff personnel for both the Assembly and Senate education committees say the legislature is likely to do better than that.

First of all, that $98 million is not all it seems to be, fiscal experts say.

Half of it is absorbed by growth in the current state aid program.

The experts say a "save harmless" provision, which guarantees that a school district will not receive less aid next year than it did during the current year because of shrinking enrollments or declining real property equalization rates, will eat up $14 to $30 million.

The governor's recommendation, then, represents only about $36 million for "enrichment" of the state aid formula, the experts say.

The leaders of the legislature have not yet reached agreement on how much better they want to do for the local school districts—that topic will be one of the first dealt with after the Easter-Passover recess. A concensus of opinion, however, favors something approaching a 5.5 per cent hike.

That would be $60 million higher than the governor's recommendation. That large a departure from the governor's proposal would be unusual.

As a budget expert for the legislature put it, "It is the habit of the legislature to outspend the governor somewhat, but $50 to $60 million ... that is just not customary."

A spokesman for the Education Department said, "If the state aid is not increased, then the burden falls on the local district, and I am afraid we are going to see cuts in the quality of the program our schools are offering."

The department spokesman says, "as I talk with school superintendents across the state they say they are trying to reorganize their systems in order to cut out administrators; cut down on programs."

He said school officials are reluctant, but may have to offer district voters stiff tax increases "which previously have resulted in many budget defeats."

In the two years since the 1970-71 fiscal year, the legislature has not increased the $860 per pupil aid formula, and according to Education Department figures, the state's share of the total education expenditure has shrunk from 48 per cent in that year to less than 42 per cent now

Therefore, even if the lawmakers vote to hike aid to education by 5.5 per cent, the actual increase would be a much smaller percentage of the $6 billion estimated overall cost of education.

Local school officials will have to decide if they can cut back programs, or if they will pass on the cost of inflation and higher teachers' salaries to local taxpayers.

Many school superintendents are faced with the pressure of having to submit a budget to the voters by mid-May, when they will probably not know until the end of this month what they can expect from the state.

Maple Syrup Lead May Go To Vermont

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Vermont may surpass New York State as the nation's leading maple syrup producer in 1973, according to a top maple syrup expert.

Both states produced around 340,000 gallons in 1972, but the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets says New York held a slight edge. Together they produced two-thirds of the country's maple syrup crop last year.

"I would guess that, with the better weather they (Vermont) would exceed the production for New York" this season, said Fred Winch, extension forester for New York State. "There's a lot more production in Vermont in the northern part of the state."

Winch said he expects 66 per cent of a normal crop yield of 500,000 gallons for New York State this year. Production in Vermont may be slightly higher, officials say, but final figures remain to be compiled.

New York State maple syrup production this year, said Winch, will vary "all the way from about a 50 per cent crop in the central and western part of the state to as much as very nearly a normal crop in the northern part of the state. It would average out . . . at approximately 66 per cent of a crop, and we would normally figure approximately 500,000 gallons for a normal year."

In northern Vermont, the sugaring process is still under way. Gil Parker of the Vermont Agriculture Department says it looks like the crop will be down about 25 per cent in the southern part of the state and equal to or ahead of last year's output in central Vermont.

Winch and Lloyd Sipple of Bainbridge, former president of the National Maple Council, say there were only a few days of ideal weather—freezing nights and thawing days—in which to harvest the crop.

"The real problem was that we went right from February weather to April weather in one day," Sipple said.

The mild weather, Winch said, was a "severe blow" to a lot of syrup producers.

"A good many of these are farmers," he said, "and as a result of last year's very wet season, a good many of their other crops were curtailed and many of them were looking to recoup their losses with the maple crop."

Sipple, editor of the trade magazine National Maple Syrup Digest, described the situation as "a real disaster to a lot of people in the state."

"I have a feeling there will be some producers that will just drop out, but they'll be producers that don't depend entirely on it," he said.

New Library Is Planned

TOWN OF CLINTON

A new library building is in the offing for the community of Clinton, to be built adjacent to the present Town Hall in Schultzville.

The Clinton Town Board recently announced its approval of plans for the new library. Detailed plans and fund-raising proposals will be discussed at an April 27 meeting of the Clinton Community Library Reading Center.

This Ninth Annual Meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the town hall, and will be preceded by a 6:30 p.m. covered dish supper. Also discussed will be the usual election of officers and approval of the library budget.

The library trustees are interested in hearing from residents of Clinton and in getting their reaction to the plans for a new library, and the public is welcome to attend the April 27 meeting, according to Mrs. Antonia Salvato.

THE LONG ARM of Willis Reed (19) of the New York Knicks goes high to block shot by Paul Silas (35) of the Boston Celtics during NBA playoff game at Garden where Knicks routed the Celts to even their series at 1-1. (UPI)

Series Now Even at 1-1

Knicks Made It No-Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — "I hope we've gotten this nonsense out of our systems and they've gotten it out of theirs, so we can settle down and play some good basketball for a change," said a smiling Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks.

"This" was no-contest basketball...and, for those fans who don't get a kick out of watching what amounts to target practice, boring basketball.

It was just that last Sunday in Boston, when the Celtics crunched the Knicks 134-108 in the first game of their Eastern Conference championship playoff.

And it was just that again Wednesday night when the Knicks buried Boston 129-96 to even up the best-of-seven series. It was also the worst National Basketball Association playoff defeat ever suffered by the Celts in their history, a string of 216 postseason games.

It was hardly typical New York-Boston basketball. Theirs are usually down-to-the-wire games. And both coaches quickly put this into perspective when asked if they thought the trend of runaway basketball might continue.

"God, I hope not!" exclaimed New York's Red Holzman. "I can't stand this. To have what happened tonight and what happened in Boston on Sunday makes you realize that you really do play one game at a time."

And Tom Heinsohn of the Celtics, the NBA Coach of the Year, added: We played a super game last time and they played one tonight, and we didn't play any kind of game at all. We were so far out of it, it was pathetic! We threw the ball away. We missed easy shots. We didn't do many things right."

The 33-point margin of defeat—so wide that the Knicks had a full corps of reserves playing much of the final quarter—erased Boston's previous worst setbacks, 115-91 to San Francisco in 1964 and 140-116 three years later against Philadelphia.

But John Havlicek, who led Boston with 21 points, put that into perspective, too. "I don't worry about us looking bad in the record books," he shrugged.

Had the thunderous noise from the 19,694 fans in Madison Square Garden contributed to the romp? "The crowd gives a home team momentum," Havlicek said, "but it doesn't take it away from the visiting club."

The visiting club was almost, but not quite, taken out of the game by halftime. The Knicks, with Dave DeBusschere scoring their first seven points and 11 in the quarter, grabbed a 29-18 firstp-eriod edge. And with Willis Reed and Phil Jackson bombing in baskets from outside and Frazier hitting both outside and in, the margin widened to 60-42 at the half.

Boston still had a chance, though—until New York reeled off 16 straight points midway in the third quarter. That made it 82-48, and that was the game.

"We closed off the middle to them and we shut down their fast break," said Frazier. "And we didn't throw away the ball like we did in Boston. Remember what you guys were writing about us in the first game? That's what they did this time."

Cunningham and Wise Flash That ABA All-Star Class

By United Press International

Billy Cunningham and Willie Wise showed just why they're American Basketball Association All-Stars Wednesday night.

Cunningham, playing with a sprained back, scored 32 points to lead the Carolina Cougars to a 102-91 victory over the Kentucky Colonels in the Eastern Division playoffs, and Wise collected 28 points, including the winning basket with 58 seconds left, as the Utah Stars edged the Indiana Pacers, 104-103, in the Western Playoffs.

The victories left both best-of-seven series tied at two games apiece.

Cunningham, held to only 14 points in his last game against Kentucky, gave the kind of performance that led to his being named the league's Most Valuable Player this season. In addition to his 32 points, Cunningham pulled down 13 rebounds and had five assists.

"How do you stop a guy like that?", asked Kentucky's Walt Simon, who did manage to hold him in their last meeting. "The way he played tonight, I've got a debt to settle with him when we meet again Friday night. But I hope his back is better then because he seems to be a terror when he's hurting."

"Actually my back didn't hurt me as much when I was moving as when I stopped playing," said Cunningham. "I pulled a muscle in my back when I was driving for the hoop in the third quarter. I'll get some treatments for it and it should be okay Friday."

Cunningham said a major factor in the victory was Carolina's containment of 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore, the league's leading rebounder who managed only nine Wednesday night.

Mack Calvin added 23 points for the Cougars, who took a three-point lead at the half and then broke open the game in the third quarter. Dan Issel had 31 for Kentucky and reserve Wendell Ladner hit 23, including three three-point field goals.

The Stars overcame Indiana's big home court advantage, mainly on the work of Wise and Jimmy Jones. Wise connected on a layup with 58 seconds left and neither team was able to score for the remainder of the game as the Pacers suffered their first home loss after 18 consecutive victories.

Jones had 34 points to lead the Stars while George McGinnis collected 36 for the Pacers.

The fifth game is scheduled for at Salt Lake City tonight and the sixth on national television from Indianapolis on Saturday.

Roosevelt Drops 'Super' for Good

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Roosevelt Raceway's President, George M. Levy, says superfecta betting will be permanently discontinued at his Long Island track because he is not allowed to expand the eight-horse field in the race.

Levy said Wednesday the State Harness Commission has turned down his appeals to enlarge the field to take away the profit from "almost any handicapper" who can eliminate longshots and bet combinations of the remaining horses until he picks the first four in order of finish and wins.

Roosevelt and Monticello Raceway suspended superfecta betting last Saturday after the city Off Track Betting Corp. detected "questionable" patterns in the superfecta wagering, where an average $3 bet can pay off $3,000.

Investigations were launched by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Harness Tracks Security, Inc., and Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn, who subpoenaed eight Roosevelt drivers to appear in his office today for questioning.

Cahn, who is expected to subpoena seven other drivers before week's end, has already drawn criticism from Levy and spokesmen for the horsemen.

The subpoena method was "certainly unfair," Levy said, because the drivers could have been asked to voluntarily cooperate with Cahn.

Any hints that there was collusion between the drivers and bettors was "absurd," said Del Insko, president of the National Association of Harness Drivers and one of those subpoenaed. He said he had no evidence of any wrongdoing by the drivers, but would cooperate with any inquiry.

Jesse Moss, attorney for the Standardbred Owners Association, said the subpoena list seemed to be based on the "news value" of such names as William "Buddy" Gilmour and Carmine Abbatiello.

"Mr. Cahn's got a very bad track record—long on publicity, short on performance," he said.

Meanwhile, Monticello Raceway president Leon Greenberg said Wednesday that by summer he hoped to reinstate the "exotic" bet (the superfecta) which he created unless the current investigation proves it to be harmful to racing.

He insisted that so far there has been no substantive proof that the superfecta was bad and charged that politicians were damaging harness racing to get publicity. He was specifically referring to Nassau County District Assorney William Cahn, who supoenaed the eight Roosevelt Raceway drivers in the current quiz.

Chinese Showed French Why Mao Likes Cagers

PARIS (AP) — The People's Republic of China, with a 6-foot-10, 250-pound center and a couple of deadeye guards, showed France why Chairman Mao likes basketball.

A mainland China team beat the Frenchmen 89-86 Wednesday night in the first game of a long European tour.

"They said they wanted to learn from us," said the French coach, Joe Jaunay. "I think we have something to learn from them."

Before the game, Lu Ting, the Chinese team manager who suggested that Chairman Mao was a basketball fan, described his players as "fast, supple and precise."

He wasn't too far off.

Hsu Cheng Wen, the 6-foot-3 team captain, hit eight of 12 one-handers in the first half to keep his team in the game while it was getting untracked. His shot was a casual over-the-shoulder thrust vaguely reminiscent of Dick Barnett.

The French led 40-37 at the half but soon were panting and missing shots and accepting aid from their opponents when they hit the floor.

The Chinese even apologized at times for fouling.

"That's some piece of flesh," one of the Coubertin Hall crowd of 4,000 said of Chao Liang Tsai, the center. Chao is broad-shouldered and thick-legged, doesn't jump much and shoots awkwardly.

But he's good at getting in the way.

.324 BA, 3 Home Runs, 8 RBIs

Stargell--The Emerging Leader

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

It takes quite a man to replace Roberto Clemente as the leader of the Pittsburgh Pirates but, then again, that's a perfect description of Willie Stargell.

Stargell is batting .364, has hit three homers and knocked in eight runs in the Pirates' first eight games. As a result, they are off to a 7-1 start compared to their 5-3 record in their first eight games last season.

Stargell drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single Wednesday night as the Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-2. Bob Moose went 7 1-3 innings for the victory which handed the Cardinals their ninth defeat in 10 games.

Score Second Straight

The Chicago Cubs scored their second straight 1-0 victory over the New York Mets, the San Francisco Giants shaded the Atlanta Braves, 4-3, in 11 innings, the Montreal Expos edged the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1, the San Diego Padres beat the Cincinnati Reds, 4-2, and the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-2, in the other National League games.

Stargell sent the Pirates off to a 3-0 lead with his first-inning homer. Milt May drove in three runs with three hits and Oliver had four hits in five tries as the Pirates raked Rick Wise and two relievers for 12 hits.

Ray Burri, Larry Gura and Jack Aker combined in a five-hitter for the Cubs, who dealt 1972 NL Rookie of the Year Jon Matlack his second loss in three decisions this season. The Cubs scored the only run of the game in the first inning when Cleo James singled, stole second, took third on a sacrifice by Glenn Beckert and tallied on Matlack's wild pitch.

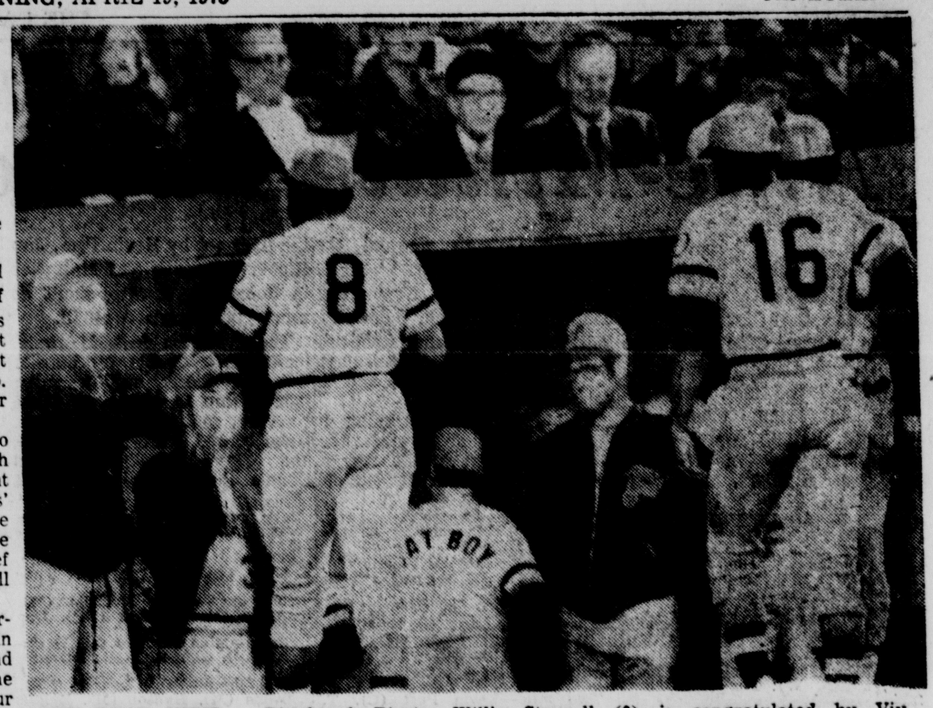

11th-Inning Homer

Bobby Bonds' 11th-inning homer gave the Giants a triumph which extended the Braves' losing streak to six games. San Francisco catcher Dave Rader made an unassisted double play, catching a pop fly in front of the plate and running to second base for the other putout, to kill an Atlanta rally in the top of the 11th. Jim Barr, who pitched three-hit ball during he final 4 1-3 innings, won his first game of the season.

Run-scoring singles by Hal Breeden and Jorge Roque off Steve Carlton gave the Expos the runs they needed to beat the Phillies behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Renko. Carlton now has a 2-2 mark for 1973.

Fred Kendall drove in two runs and scored another with two doubles and a squeeze bunt as the Padres ended the Reds' five-game winning streak. Steve Arlin carried a shutout into the ninth but then needed the relief help of Rich Troedson and Bill Greif.

Jerry Reuss pitched a four-hitter and Bob Watson drove in three runs with two singles and a bases-filled walk for the Astros, who had lost four straight games. Tommy John was the losing pitcher for the Dodgers.

THE REAR VIEW — Pittsburgh Pirates Willie Stargell (8) is congratulated by Viv Davalillo (L) and Dave Giusti after he hit a three-run homer driving in Al Oliver (16) and Dave Cash (R) in the first inning of Cardinals-Pirates game. (UPI)

Melton Called the Turn

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

When Bill Melton predicted he'd combine with Dick Allen for 75 homers this season, he wasn't boasting.

They showed how effective they can be Wednesday when they hit back-to-back homers in the first inning as the White Sox topped the Texas Rangers, 6-5. It was third homer of the year for Melton, who was sidelined with a spinal disc ailment most of last season, and the second for Allen.

That gives them five homers in eight games and if they continue that pace all year, they'd combine for 100.

The victory evened the Chicago record at 4-4 so far this season after a slow start that included three straight losses to Kansas City. The White Sox now seem ready to make a move in the race.

Allen Paces Sox

Allen paced the White Sox with three hits and drove in a total of four runs. Rubber-armed Wilbur Wood went 8 2-3 innings to even his record at 2-2. Terry Forster picked up the save.

Don Stanhouse gave up Allen's tie-breaking double and suffered the loss but Mike Paul was the victim of the back-to-back first inning homers.

In the other games, New York topped Baltimore, 7-4, Detroit beat Boston, 7-1, Milwaukee blanked Cleveland, 4-0, California edged Minnesota, 3-2, and Oakland beat Kansas City, 7-6.

Fastballing Nolan Ryan boosted his record to 3-0 with a five-hit, 14-strikeout performance as the Angels downed the Twins. Frank Robinson, who struck out in his first three trips as a designated hitter, hit an eighthi-nning homer to snap a 2-2 tie. Bert Blyleven, 1-3, took the loss.

All Three Homered

Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Ed Brinkman all homered to pace a 17-hit attack and lead Detroit past Boston. Jim Perry pitched a a five-hitter for his second victory in a Detroit uniform. Luis Tiant, 2-1, was knocked out in the second inning and took the loss.

World Series hero Gene Tenace hit his third homer this season—a two-run ninth inning shot—to lift Oakland past Kansas City and snap the Royals four-game winning streak. The Royals had taken a 6-4 lead with two unearned runs in the fifth after Carl Taylor bowled over Ray Fosse at the plate. But Fosse singled in a seventh-inning run and then Tenace won the game.

Hart Serious About That DH

BALTIMORE (AP) — After rapping out three hits in his first American League game, Jim Ray Hart is ready to do some serious thinking about the new designated hitter rule.

"I didn't give it much thought before," Hart said after helping the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles 7-4 Wednesday night. "But now, I figure it might help me a lot."

Hart's bad-hop single in the sixth inning scored one Yankee run, and his third hit launched the winning five-run rally in the ninth which pinned the defeat on lefty Mike Cuellar, an old New York nemesis.

Thurman Munson, who also had three of New York's 13 safeties, followed with a home run to tie the score 4-4. Roy White's two-out bloop single put the Yanks ahead, and then Felipe Alou rapped another homer.

"Hart could be just what the doctor ordered," said New York Manager Ralph Houk.

"He makes our line-up look much better, especially against left-handers. He runs better than I expected, too."

The Yanks purchased Hart from the San Francisco Giants of the National League, where there is no designated hitter rule—an innovation which could boost the career of Hart.

Bothered the past couple of seasons with shoulder and knee injuries, Hart reported to the Yanks overweight after almost no playing time this spring.

"I batted three times in spring training," Hart said, "and then in the first regular season game in San Francisco, I was taken out for a pinch runner. I haven't played since."

"We were after a right-handed hitter," Houk said, "and Hart was the best one available. It was as simple as that. He could be a power threat in parks like Boston, Detroit, Cleveland and Milwaukee."

Houk was bouyed by the comeback by the Yanks, who had trouble scoring while losing six of their first nine games.

"We were about due to break loose," Houk said. "We've had a tough time with those bats after hitting well in spring training."

Yogi Banking on Rusty

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think things will be better when Rusty starts hitting."

Manager Yogi Berra of the New York Mets was referring to the batting slump of Rusty Staub in the wake of the 1-0 victory of the Chicago Cubs over the Mets at Shea Stadium Wednesday.

In contrast to a year ago at this time Staub, the Mets' cleanup hitter, has driven in only one run and his batting average is a slim .129. He hasn't had a hit in his last 12 at-bats and only one in his last 17 times up.

Staub isn't the only Met in a slump at the plate. The entire team is hitting only .181 and the Mets haven't scored in 26 consecutive innings following their second successive 1-0 defeat.

"It's better that our slump has come early instead of later," said Berra, looking for the silver lining in a gloomy clubhouse. "It came last year in July."

The Cubs' lone tally came in the first inning on some old fashioned baseball, a single, a stolen base, a sacrifice and a wild pitch.

The wild pitch was charged to southpaw Jon Matlack. Cleo James was on third as a result of his single, stolen base and a sacrifice bunt when Matlack uncorked his errant throw.

"I don't think it was a wild pitch particularly," Matlack said later. "It was a tough one to catch, though. I was supposed to pitch low and away to Billy Williams who leans into the ball. But I released this one up and in and it got Duffy Dyer by surprise."

Thereafter the Mets were helpless in the clutch against rookie Ray Burris and relievers Larry Gura and Jack Aker. Burris, making his first National League start, was taken out after Cleon Jones had opened the Mets' sixth with a single, but was credited with the victory.

Wayne Garrett and George Theodore were in the Mets' starting lineup for the first time, but each went hitless.

"I don't know what I can do about today's doubleheader," said Berra. "I can't play all 25 guys on the roster."

Hawks May Change Lineup

NEW YORK (AP) — As the Chicago Black Hawks prepared for tonight's fourth game of their National Hockey League semifinal playoff against the New York Rangers, Coach Billy Reay mulled a key lineup change.

It was obvious from J.P. Bordeleau's problems with English that Reay will have to come up with a new designated speaker. It's even possible that the Chicago coach will be under orders to open the dressing room to all newsmen and make all of his players available, something he didn't bother to do after Game 3.

Reay, interpreting NHL playoff instructions down to the letter, had directed reporters to Bordeleau, a seldom-used reserve, following the Hawks' 2-1 third game victory. "He is our designated speaker for tonight," said the coach.

It was no joke either. The other Black Hawks clammed tight on reporters attempting post-game interviews and, in a rather ugly scene, Reay forcibly ejected one newsman who tried to interview another player.

When it became obvious that stories would be scarce in the Black Hawks room if Bordeleau was the only player allowed to talk, newsmen asked Reay what was going on.

Maroon Netmen Score 2-1 Victory Over Saugerties

KINGSTON — The Kingston High School tennis team scraped out another victory Wednesday, this one a hair-raising 3-2 decision over visiting Ketcham.

It was our second consecutive come-from behind victory," commented a none too happy coach John Hunter. "Our doubles are carrying us."

Kingston went into the doubles matches trailing 2-1, and the hero turned out to be freshman Garth Galyon who appeared in his first match replacing an absent John Ivankovic. Garth teamed with brother Dan and outpointed Rich Tauser and Mark Southard, 8-2 to keep the Maroons' record intact at 3-0 in league play.

Phil Bosch led off with an 8-0 win over Steve Klein to get Kingston started, but the lead didn't last. Tom Lonergan, after building a 3-0 lead on Calvin Sun, lost to the Indian, 8-3.

Dan Galyon then fell victim to the lob shots of Scott Gellar, losing 8-5, and the Maroons were down. Bosch and Lonergan came back to even the count with an 8-4 doubles win over Klein and Sun.

Flyers All Even With Canadiens

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers are tied 1-1 as they take the ice tonight in the third game of their best of seven semifinal series against the Montreal Canadiens, and most people are surprised. Why?

If you look at the results of the regular season series between the two teams, the deadlock is as natural as pork and beans. Montreal and Philadelphia played five games during the season and wound up 2-2-1. Each team scored 24 goals.

The playoff series thus far has followed the trend. Both games ended in overtime, Philadelphia winning Saturday night 5-4 on a goal by Rick McLeish, and the Canadiens winning 4-3 Tuesday night as rookie Larry Robinson rocketed a 50-footer into the Flyers' net.

In tonight's other NHL semifinal, the Chicago Black Hawks have a 2-1 lead over the New York Rangers, for a game in New York's Madison Square Garden.

In the World Hockey Association, New England defeated Cleveland 3-2 to take a 1-0 lead into tonight's second game of the East Division finals in Boston.

Wallkill, Onteora, New Paltz, Ellies Win

Nine-Minute Barrier Falls in UCAL 2-Mile Relays

KINGSTON — The nine minute barrier fell in the UCAL's two-mile relay event for the first time this season — twice. Red Hook High School and Coleman each accomplished the feat, but both came in losing causes as powerful Wallkill racked up a surprisingly decisive 88-44 win over the Raiders, and improving Onteora downed the Statesmen, 97½-43½.

In other meets, New Paltz continued to roll, downing Marlboro, 89-54, and Rondout, in a double dual, lost both ends — to Pine Bush 103-33, and to Ellenville 85½-55½.

With Phil Hand carrying a blazing 2:01 anchor leg, the Raiders clocked 8:58.5. But it was the tenth of a second off the pace set by Kevin Post, Jim Rioux, Tom Nee and Matt Nee in Boiceville. It also didn't do much good against Wallkill.

The Panthers took 11 firsts, including a double by hurdler Bob Rutigliano and a super triple jump of 40-8½ by Steve Narvaez, to humble Red Hook. Hand turned 4:31.6 in the mile, and Dave Benkart nipped Dennis Lloyd in the 880, but beyond that the Raiders were hurting.

With stalwarts Tracy Smith, Jim Scarth and Harold Wright leading the way, the Indians were just too deep for Coleman. Holger Sternberg, filling in for absent Tim Malloy, added firsts in the high jump and long jump to the winner's total.

But the Statesmen do have distance strength, and Rioux's mile and Post's two-mile performances were the only other firsts they won.

Judd Grosshans topped the bar at 11-9 to take the pole vault and established himself as another Huguenot with league title pretentions. New Paltz won methodically with Mike Clinton leading the way, while Marlboro's Mike Moriello turned in a good individual performance by throwing the shot 43-5 and the discus 130.

Weightman Ralph Hiller, hurdler Rich Zimmerman, sprinter Dave Walker and distance runner Fred Lopiano accounted for all the individual wins the Ganders could muster against their two opponents. Pine Bush overwhelmed Rondout with Tom Savona, Stan Gill and Paul Lucyshyn taking two wins each. For Ellenville, Herman Pinque, Norman Zelinsky and Terry Arnold doubled. It was Arnold's last meet for the Ellies. He is departing for the Marine Corps.

Blue Devil Angelo Cappazoli set the tongues wagging with a high jump of 5-11.

Sawyers, Lourdes, Roosevelt Win Area Baseball Contests

SAUGERTIES — Third baseman Matt Brand delivered a single in the bottom of the eighth inning here Wednesday to score Dave Fuller and give the Sawyers an upset 3-2 victory over visiting Beacon.

Kingston High was the victim of another upset as the Maroons were surprised in Hyde Park by Roosevelt, 5-3. In other DCSL games, Arlington trounced John Jay, 8-2, and Ketcham tumbled Poughkeepsie, 7-4. In a non-league battle, Lourdes edged New Paltz, 3-1 in eight innings.

Winning pitcher Larry Pinella, who went all the way, led off the extra frame with a single. Fuller followed with his second hit of the day, and reliever Tom Powers was in trouble.

He got Jim Myers to hit on the ground, forcing Pinella at third, but Brand then stepped up to belt the game-winner.

Beacon took a one-run lead in the second, and it could have been more but for a good defensive play by center fielder Doc Salinovich. With a man on third, Salinovich tracked down a liner by Steve Crawford and fired a strike home to double up Jim Dexter at the plate.

Saugerties took the lead in the third, courtesy of three Bulldog errors, and Beacon came back to knot the score at 2-all in the fifth on Bill Leith's RBI single.

Both Saugerties and Beacon evened up their league records at 1-1.

Roosevelt's John Dubraski had his stuff and Kingston's Dave Decker didn't. While Dubraski limited the Maroons to two hits through the first six innings, Decker, in his first varsity start, got consistently behind the hitters and was tagged for five hits and five runs in three frames.

"I didn't expect to lose this one," admitted KHS coach Ron Cole. "Our 3, 4 and 5 hitters didn't produce and that Dubraski pitched a good game."

One of the early Kingston hits was a home run by John Carter, but that was the only runs the Maroons could score until the seventh. Chuck Bouton and Ed Glynn each singled and moved up on a passed ball, and Walt Houghtaling delivered them both with another hit, but Houghtaling was caught stealing to end the game.

Winning pitcher Mike Laffin socked a two-run homer in the top of the eighth over the left field fence at the New Paltz State diamond to power himself to victory over the Huguenots.

Roger Plantier started and pitched five no-hit innings for New Paltz. Reliever Bill Patsis served up the gopher and took the defeat.

Braves' McAdoo Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob McAdoo of the Buffalo Braves was named today as the National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year for the 1972-3 season by a landslide vote.

The 6-foot-10 McAdoo, who played college ball for the University of North Carolina, got off to a slow start with Buffalo, but after adjusting to the pro game, blossomed out as a top scorer in the second half of the season.

He scored 39, 39 and 45 points in his last three games of the season, finishing with an 18-point per game average and 9.2 rebounds per game in addition to blocking 216 shots. During his last 51 games, he shot 48 per cent from the floor and averaged 22.8 points per game and 10.8 rebounds.

In the voting by sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 NBA cities, McAdoo received 12.840 of a possible 17 votes.

OCS Linksmen Surprise SHS At Sawyerkill

SAUGERTIES — A young golf team from Onteora High School surprised home-standing Saugerties at the Sawyerkill Country Club here Wednesday, and despite a 41 by medalist Craig Fisher of the home forces, took a 185-190 non-league victory.

At Twaalfskill, Coleman continued undefeated in the UCAL with a 166-239 rout of Red Hook.

Jeff Buton fired 43 to lead the winners who handled the strange course very well. John Carlson carded 45, Bill Kennedy had 47 and John Elwyn shot 50 to complete the winning total.

Saugerties, a hard team to figure these days, blossomed after Fisher. Paul Panchak shot 49, Chris Luley totalled 48 and Dave Heineck turned in a 52.

Monday these same Sawyers had defeated a powerful Rondout Valley team which in turn went to Woodstock and beat Onteora.

Oklahoma Used Rare Self-Judgement

Kenny Jackson

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — In a rare case of severe self judgment, the University of Oklahoma Wednesday changed its 1972 football record from 11-1 to 3-9.

Oklahoma forfeited eight victories—including a 14-0 Sugar bowl decision over Penn State—recorded by last season's No. 2 team, and in doing so school officials made clear why the action was taken.

But left unsettled was who had prompted collegiate athletics' latest recruiting scandal and what future punishment might be coming to the Sooners.

The eight games were turned from wins to losses because freshman Kerry Jackson, the Sooners' No. 2 quarterback, had become eligible to play football at Oklahoma only because his school transcripts had been altered and because he had stayed in the athletic dormitory at Ball High School in Galveston, Tex.

Jackson played in each of the eight forfeited games—against Utah State, Oregon, Clemson, Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma State and Penn State. He ran for 339 yards from the Wishbone-T attack, completed 11-of-38 passes and had four throws intercepted.

Oklahoma Athletic Director Wade Walker said the transcript of another Ball High School student—Mike Phillips, had also been changed. Phillips, a center, played only on Oklahoma's freshman team last year.

Walker said both players would be ineligible for next season.

Jackson quarterbacked the No. 1 unit during the Sooners' spring training drills, but was expected to have to battle Scot Hill for the starting assignment next autumn.

Walker said Assistant Coach Bill Michael had admitted knowledge of the violations and had resigned. Coach Barry Switzer, who replaced Chuck Fairbanks earlier this year when Fairbanks became coach of the New England Patriots, said he knew of no other coaches involved.

But who tampered with the transcripts?

"I can only say this is under investigation," said Walker.

"I can't make any statement until our school superintendent returns to town," said the principal at Ball High School, Jim Watson.

Thus far, most of the investigative work has been done by Oklahoma University and the Big Eight Conference. The NCAA will now enter the investigation, and conceivably could forbid Oklahoma from participating in bowl games or—for the maximum punishment—bar the Sooners from playing football at all for one or more seasons.

The NCAA might take a lenient attitude toward Oklahoma, however, since the university took the extraordinary action of publicly censuring itself.

"It has been verified by conference officials that the transcripts of both Jackson and Phillips have been tampered with and that Jackson had stayed in the athletic dormitory during two visits to the Oklahoma campus while he was a senior in high school," said Walker.

Walker said neither player new that any wrong had been done. Switzer said both athletes indicated they wanted to remain at Oklahoma.

"I told the squad that no one individual or two individuals made a football team," Switzer said. "This is just another challenge all athletes have to accept.

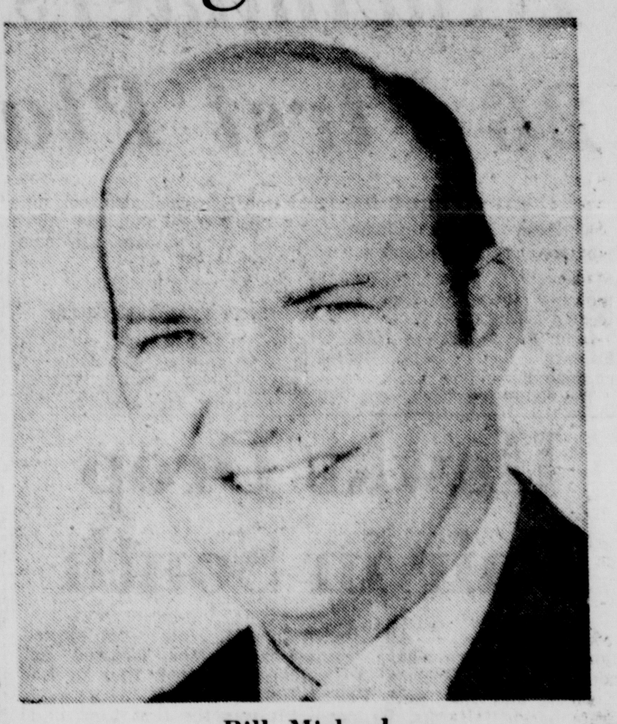

"You know what the kid (Jackson) did when I told him? He just sat there and didn't say a thing.

"Then I told him Coach Michael had resigned and he sat there and cried."

Walker said he did not know whose tip might have caused the Big Eight to begin its investigation but Texas Southern University Coach Rod Paige — who recruited both Jackson and Phillips—wanted it known that he was not the tipster.

"I didn't blow the whistle on Oklahoma," said Paige. "I did try to recruit Phillips and Jackson. I thought I had them.

"I have not seen Jackson's transcript, but if I had seen it and known it had been altered I would have blown the whistle."

Hawks Drop Pair in South

MARYLAND — All that famous Southern hospitality seems to be ignoring Pete Kramer and his New Paltz State baseball Hawks. Wednesday New Paltz lost two more games on its current swing through plantation country, dropping both ends of a hard-fought doubleheader to host Chesapeake, 3-1 and 3-2.

Good pitching stymied the Hawk bats in both games as Chesapeake winners Scott Wallace and John Moss each chucked complete game, five-hitters. New Paltz got some decent mound work from its own staff, but key errors and a couple of bloop hits were enough to decide the issues.

About the opener, Kramer said, "We gave them the ball game." He was referring to two fielding blunders that put a pair of Chesapeake runners on base in the very first inning. Steals moved them into scoring position, then the winner's Earl Jordan blooped a single that landed on the left field foul line and chased home the two runs.

It was a lead Chesapeake never reliquished as New Paltz failed to support a good pitching effort by Tom Whitaker. Whitaker only gave up five hits himself while striking out six and surrendered but a one additional run in the sixth frame. The best the Hawks could do, however, was foil the shutout in the third on Bob Kozak's double and Mike Scammaca's single.

Out to make amends in the nitecap, New Paltz took a 2-0 lead in the second frame. Kozak slammed his second double of the day, driving in a run, and Kenin Mancini and pitcher Rich Malke also hit safely to highlight the rally.

But the lead was to be shortlived, and it was Malke who wrought his own fall. He opened the bottom half by walking the second and third men he faced, then he buzzed a pitch close to Chesapeake's Kent Heintzelman. The plate umpire said ball, but on the appeal the base umpire ruled hit batsman. In the ensuing argument, Malke was ejected, coach Kramer followed and Heinzelman took first to load the sacks.

"It was the first time in 11 years of coaching that's ever happened to me," lamented a rueful Kramer.

But it happened nonetheless, and Rich Ezell capped the hijinx with another bloop single that wiped out the New Paltz lead.

Moss, despite handing out seven walks, managed to blank the Hawks over the last five innings, but Paltz reliever Sandy Strauss was not so fortunate. He walked the pesky Heintzelman in the fourth, and the Chesapeake third baseman eventually scored on a single by Gene Hassell.

The Hawks are now 2-6 on the season and have one game remaining in the warmer clime, today versus Aberbale, before returning home. With the double victory, Chesepeake evened their season record at 8-8.

InskoBlasts 'Super' Quiz

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UPI) — Harness Driver Association president Del Insko today called the Superfecta betting investigation "absurd" as eight of his top drivers faced questioning in the inquiry.

Insko was one of eight drivers subpoenaed last night at Roosevelt Raceway to appear for questioning tomorrow by Nassau County District Attorney William Cahn.

"We do not believe that there has been any wrongdoing on the part of any of the drivers in the Superfecta or any other race at Roosevelt," Insko said.

"This is absurd. The investigation should have been conducted in a quiet manner, not in the newspapers."

But he said his group would "cooperate in any and all investigations" into what the State Harness Racing Commission has called "irregular betting patterns," in the Superfecta.

Insko said one explanation for the irregular betting patterns could be the operation of the "ten per centers, who cash winning tickets for bettors wishing to avoid paying income taxes on large wagers.

Sawyer Netmen Sweep Onteora

BOICEVILLE — Saugerties High's strong tennis team added another impressive showing to its growing list Tuesday when it scored a 9-0 victory over Onteora High School.

The Sawyers, in sweeping all six singles matches and the three doubles pairings, were put to a severe test only in third doubles where Craig Vogel and Todd Hackett sweated out a 10-8 win over Billy Harder and Russ Houghlin.

In singles, Duane Jones downed Chris Conover, 8-2; Robbie Tirsch handcuffed Conrad Earnest, 8-2; Darryl Jones whipped John Claudy, 8-0; Rene Niemoller defeated Harder, 8-4; Vogel tripped Houghlin, 8-0; and Hackett stopped Bob Bedell, 8-5.

Duane Jones and Tirsch opened the doubles competition by beating Conover and Earnest, 8-5. Duane Jones and Niemoller finished it up with an 8-2 win over Claudy and Bedell.

Saugerties is 5-0 on the season. Onteora is 1-2

Uhl Top Gun In All-Star

KINGSTON — Jumpin' Joe Uhl, who racked up a fantastic 39.6 scoring average in the YMCA Basketball League, leads the "A" League All Stars against the champion Massa's Enterprises in the annual all-star contest tonight at 8:15 p.m. at the municipal auditorium.

In the preliminary, the B All Stars take on Corner Rest, B League champions at 7 p.m.

In addition to Uhl, the "A" All Stars have Scott Miller (21.7) ex-Tampa U., Dave Whittaker (18.8), Floyd Vogt (11.0), and Vino Platts (24.2). A. J. Murphy (24.3) and Rod Chando (20.1) lead Massa's. Kevin Jones, with a 26.1 average, is the top player in the B contest.

Massa's went 12-0 in the regular and beat the All Stars in November 112-104. The B contest would seem to give the All Stars the edge but Corner Rest was also undefeated and is a tough, physical team.

All Star trophies will be awarded after the games.

Brisker Case Now Settled

NEW YORK (AP) — The John Brisker affair is settled, with the struggling Philadelphia 76ers getting some much-needed draft choices and Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, getting the backing of his Board of Governors.

The Brisker matter involving Philadelphia and Seattle was settled Wednesday night following a nine-hour meeting, which because of its length caused the second postponement of the NBA's college draft.

The draft originally was set for last Monday, then today and now will be held next Tuesday.

The American Basketball Association, which says it wants to draft after the NBA does, is still scheduled officially to have its selection session on Friday, but is expected to change the date today. The ABA draft first was set set for last Tuesday.

When the NBA draft is held, Philadelphia, which had the worst record in the league this past season, will not only have the first pick of the first round but also will have a bonus pick which will be made after the 17 regular first-round selections.

The board also ruled that the signing of Brisker will cost Seattle $10,000 and its second-round choices in the draft this year and in the 1974 draft, which will go to Philadelphia.

The special session of the 17-member board took place after a court had overturned Kennedy's original ruling in the matter.

Brisker became the NBA property of Philadelphia in 1969 in a supplemental draft but he signed with Pittsburgh of the ABA. When the Pittsburgh franchise disbanded last year Brisker signed with Seattle.

Kennedy then ruled that Seattle could keep Brisker but must pay a $10,000 fine and give its first-round draft choice to Philadelphia.

But Seattle owner Sam Shulman went to court and U.S. Judge John H. Tenney ruled that Kennedy had usurped the authority of the NBA's Board of Governors and was "guilty of misconduct" because he failed to hold a hearing or consult the board before making his decision.

Kennedy then called the special meeting of the board and got its backing basically. The vote on the action was not revealed but the action needed to be favored by two-thirds, or 12, of the 17 members.

New York 196 Years Old on Friday

ALBANY — Friday, April 20, marks New York State's 196th birthday, and it was on that date in 1777 that the church bells of Kingston proclaimed the adoption of the first state constitution, and the state began its official existence.

In five years New York will celebrate its bicentennial, and the New York State Revolution Bicentennial Commission has already begun working with Kingston officials and developing plans for statewide observance of the state's 200th anniversary.

The first constitution was drafted in the heat of battle. Washington and his army were in retreat and the British were sweeping up the Hudson, as New York's government became a government on the run.

It was during the fateful winter of 1777 that a committee of 13 men labored to put together a plan of government under which the new state could legally operate. As a province, New York had had no consolidated system of law, but had been governed by a complicated maze of charters, laws, and instructions extending back to Dutch Colonial days. In the winter of their insecurity New Yorkers needed the legal prop of a written constitution which would also legitimize their action in declaring independence.

And so it was that the Convention of the Representatives of the State of New York, acting on instructions from the Continental Congress, appointed the committee to hammer out an instrument of government.

New York's "Founding Fathers" were a mix of aristocrats such as Robert Livingston, John Jay and Gouverneur Morris, of middle-class lawyers such as John Morin Scott, and of self-made men of humble origin who found in the Revolution an opportunity to climb the social and political ladder.

The instrument of government which this motley group put together was the product of compromise and consensus and not the work of one person. The committee was forced to move from town to town as the British advanced up the Hudson, and under such chaotic conditions the full membership was seldom in attendance. Although proposals to abolish slavery and to institute a secret ballot were introduced, discussion of such radical innovations was deferred until after the war when conditions were more stable.

The first state constitution was a conservative document and reflected the vested interests of the propertied classes. But with all its imperfections, the first state constitution was a remarkable document. It represented the state's first definite consolidated form of government, and served until 1821 as New York's highest law. Under this document New York was organized, prospered and grew, and now, 196 years later Empire Staters are looking forward to the anniversary of 200 years of statehood.

Local Program Of Renaissance Is Reviewed

KINGSTON — Members of the Common Council met with officials from the Renaissance Program (which has been operating a storefront on Broadway for the past several months) for a review of the program in what was described as "a general exchange of views."

Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), majority leader of the Common Council, who had called for the meeting at the April 3 regular meeting of the Common Council, after questioning expenditure by the storefront, said Tuesday night's meeting was "very informative." "We (the aldermen) all supported this program, and the consensus seems to be that it is a good program, but, we want to be kept informed of what's going on,' Mancuso said. As a result of last night's meeting, Mancuso said, the Renaissance Program will be issuing regular monthly reports of its activities to the Common Council.

Attending the meeting at the storefront were all the aldermen with the exception of Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), John F. Coffey (D-First Ward) and Brian D. Smith R-Third Ward), Dr. Elmer S. McKay, former chairman of the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council and David H. Rylance, president of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on Miles Driven
40,000 miles
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

VICTORIA CHAMBERS ST. JOHN

St. John-Gilligan Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chambers St. John of 27 Burgevin Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Victoria Chambers, to Kenneth Drew Gilligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilligan of Windham, formerly of Kingston.

Miss St. John is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frederick Ertel of Kingston, and the late Frederick J. Ertel, and Mrs. Howard R. St. John of Kingston and the late Howard R. St. John.

The bride-elect will be graduated in May from Briarcliff College, Briarcliff Manor, and made her debut at the Mid-Hudson Cotillion in 1969. She is a provisional member of the Junior League.

Her fiance will be graduated in May from King's College, Wilkes Barre, Pa., where he is a member of the Aquinas Honor Society and National Honor Society. He plans to attend law school in the fall.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Upcoming Events Are Scheduled

The monthly meeting of the Altar-Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Church was held Monday, April 16, at which time events for the coming month were discussed.

A bake sale is scheduled for May 6th, after all Masses starting with the 9 o'clock Mass. Chairmen Mrs. Joseph Ryndak and Mrs. George Giustino will accept baked goods on the previous Saturday in the school from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds will be used for the various needs of the Altar.

Mrs. Joseph Misasi, chairman, announced the annual banquet will be held Wednesday, June 6. Further details will be discussed at the next meeting.

Guest speaker, Sr. Barbara Bennet, assistant principal and guidance counselor of the John A. Coleman High School, spoke on the changing rolls of religious women in the church. She stated that "During any period of social unrest and disorganization — and especially in the present one — with its racial riots, antiwar demonstrations, and assassination of great national leaders, the growth of revolutionary movements, and the problems of urbanization — there is a confusion of leadership roles. This confusion which results from social unrest must necessarily be reflected in religious life."

In the past, the religious community was almost a mystery. However, thanks to Vatican II, the religious were not set aside as in the past, but were definitely linked with the laity. An example was given when a group of married couples gave an entire day to work with various groups of Coleman Seniors in a marriage course which was formerly given by the priests and sisters.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, Mrs. James Rapp, and Warren Lawrence.

Miss Barbara Brinnier Weds C. J. Zell

Barbara Louise Brinier of Kingston became the bride of Christopher Joseph Zell of Eddyville on Saturday, Apr. 7, at the Church of the Holy Name of Jesus, Kingston. The Rev. Msgr. James A. Reynolds officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wayne Cusher, organist, accompanied Nadine Woinoski who sang traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Brinnier of 41 Johnston Avenue, Kingston. The bridegroom is the stepson and son, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin DeWitt of Eddyville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of ecru imported satin faced organza in the Elizabethian styling, fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a high neckline and deeply cuffed cavalier sleeves, posed over softly pleated full skirt in demi-bell silhouette. Hand clipped Alencon lace braid in ivory trimmed the neckline and sleeve cuffs. A deep border of crystal pleated lace encircled the chapel length detachable train. She wore a custom designed band of matching lace in her hair to which was shirred her chapel-length, lace-edged mantilla. She carried a colonial bouquet of white anemones, violets and white stephanotis.

Jennifer Murray of Kingston was maid of honor. Attendants were Carol Brinnier, Dale Brinnier, Kingston, both sisters of the bride; Lynne Benjamin, cousin of the bride, Lake Katrine; and Chris Arnault, Hornell, N.Y. Katherine Hoxeman was flower girl.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER J. ZELL

The honor attendant and flower girl were gowned alike in floral printed polyester voile in shades of nile, hot pink, orchid and lilac on a white background. The gowns featured empire bodices and deep lilac grosgrain ribbon at the waistlines. They wore white horsehair picture hats trimmed with matching ribbon. They carried baskets of white, pink and purple anemones.

Attendants' gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's except with hot pink grosgrain ribbon detailing. They carried baskets of white, pink and purple anemones.

Anthony Zell, Stone Ridge, was best man for his brother. Ushers were Terry Allred, Kingston; Sandy Whitman, Kingston; Kevin Ross, Hurley; and Raymond Angelo of Philadelphia, Pa. Patrick O'Reilly was ringbearer.

A reception was given at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

The bride received her BS degree in Education at Cortland State College, and is employed at Ulster County Department of Social Services.

Her husband was awarded his BA degree in Mathematics from State University College at New Paltz and is employed by Brinnier and Larios Engineers.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Zell will reside at 61 Clifton Avenue, Kingston.

Saugerties Girl Wins Art Contest

Regen Russell of Saugerties, an Ulster Academy senior, took first place in a fine arts contest sponsored by the Third District of New York State Federation of Women's Clubs. The announcement was made to The Freeman by Miss Martha Freer, president of Sorosis of Kingston, sponsors of the contestant. The winning work will be entered in competition at the Federation's convention on April 30.

Miss Russell's entry was an acrylic self-portrait.

Under the rules of the contest, each of the clubs in the Third District may sponsor one entry. The artwork may be a watercolor, oil, pastel or other media. Each entry must be the recent, original work of a senior in a high school, academy or private school.

The district judging was conducted by the Study Club of New Paltz whose past president, Mrs. John L. Wyman, is Third District Director of the Federation. Mrs. David Loeks was in charge of arrangements.

Three area artists judged the contest. They are Mrs. William Marx, Arthur Kurts and Ron Schade.

Mrs. Marx had four years of training at the Harris School of Art in Nashville, Tennessee. She taught for three years at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City and was Art Director for a fashion agency in the city before moving to New Paltz, where she continues her painting and is a free lance commercial artist.

Arthur Kurtz studied at the Cleveland School of Art and at the School of Architecture of Western Reserve University. Twenty-five years ago he helped organize the New Paltz Art Association and since that time he has continued to study and to paint while being engaged in the business of raising apples.

For 10 years, while pursuing a career in commercial and feature film production, Mr. Schade was very active in the New York art scene. He and his wife have recently moved to Gardiner where they operate R.C. Schade and Associates, an advertising and public relations firm.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM J. NORTON SR., of 21 Mary's Avenue, Kingston, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a party given by their two sons on Wednesday, April 11 in Lincoln Park Inn, Ulster Avenue Mall. The Norton children are William J. Norton Jr., and Garry Mark Norton. The senior Mr. Norton has been employed for more than 17 years by IBM in Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Norton were married April 11, 1948 in St. Mary's Church, Kingston. Officiating was the late Very Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury. The Nortons received many congratulatory messages and gifts from relatives and friends. (Photo by Artcraft)

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE

IF YOU'RE DYEING FOR EASTER . . . !

Dear Heloise:

I have used your tip of coloring eggs for Easter by using the dry skins from yellow onions. But how about going one better and making marble-designed eggs? Our eggs this year are the most beautiful I've ever seen and the kids are really thrilled.

Just wrap pieces of dry onion skin around each egg. Then place in a square of material (I used an old sheet torn in small pieces, which can be reused.) Tie the cloth with string or those twist ties. Boil the eggs as usual for making hard-boiled eggs, using a little vinegar in the water to help set the colors.

To get the marblized effect, the eggs must be wrapped in the cloth to make the onion skins remain close to the eggshell. When you unwrap your eggs after running cold water on them — Surprise! No two eggs will look exactly the same!

The eggs are colored from light yellow to dark brown after boiling. Because you're dyeing your eggs at the same time they are being cooked, it's so much less messy than using egg dye colors — and much more beautiful!

Mary Schneider

We tried coloring some eggs first with the yellow skins, and then we used skins from red onions. Beautiful...

To see what would happen, we used skins of both yellow and red on the same egg. Those eggshells were as lovely as any "gen-u-ine" marble!

I was speechless when I saw those eggs. I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen it with my own eyes!

But, gals, as Mary said, the most important thing is the cloth must be snug around the egg to keep the skins close to the eggshells.

P.S. I have to admit I used nylon net and safety pins!

Dear Heloise:

I recently inherited several beautiful old quilts from an elderly cousin. They all were in excellent condition.

I used two that blended on twin beds with dust ruffles. We also have quilts to fold and put on the foot of the beds like long ago, and this is quite colorful. It is nice to have quilts for covers after all thes years.

I use one small one for a coverlet for the den couch. One that is thinner than the rest I use for a tablecloth at times. My clever daughter lined one with plastic and uses it for a shower curtain!

Dear Heloise:

A clean papier-mache (or plastic) meat tray is a help when sewing or crocheting.

It will hold your needles, thread, scissors, crochet hooks and anything else you may be using at the time.

You can pick up the tray and carry from place to place with everything intact!

Dodging the IRS Can Be Very Taxing

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns a very successful business. He is a devoted, faithful husband and a wonderful father. All my friends think I'm the luckiest woman in the world. I would be, if it weren't for the fact that I am terrified that my husband will go to prison for income tax evasion.

He hasn't paid any taxes in six years. At first he really didn't have the money at tax time. The next year he put off filing until it was too late. The third year he didn't need an excuse. Now he says he knows plenty of others who don't pay any taxes, so why should he?

I have talked to him until I'm blue in the face. Now he refuses to even discuss it.

Abby, I am worried sick that with the new computer system they will soon catch up with him. What can I do?

JANE DOE

DEAR JANE: If you can't talk some sense into his head, confide in your lawyer and ask him to. If he 'fesses up, the penalty will be considerably lighter than if the feds catch him.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Listen to this. A friend of mine is pregnant and some of her friends are getting together to give her a baby shower. This woman is 44 years old, soon to be 45, and she has six children and is a grandmother to boot. (Her oldest is 23 and her youngest is 12). I say it's ridiculous to give a shower for a woman this age. Some of my friends disagree with me. What do you say?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I see nothing ridiculous about it. On the contrary, I can't think of anyone who could use the lift more.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: The letter about "Jane," who was convinced that she should take care of her elderly father has haunted me.

I am 60, and God forbid that any of my children should ever have to "take care" of me. I want my children to remember me as a strong person who is capable of taking care of himself. I never want to live with any of my children. It would present all kinds of problems and I'd feel guilty.

Just give me a room in a good clean nursing home where I can have my own corner, forget responsibility and can be served without feeling that I'm imposing. I don't want to worry about illnesses, family quarrels, or the grandchildren's grades. I've been thru all that. Give me peace.

Don't forget me, tho. Call and write now and then. And invite me for Sunday dinner occasionally. Let me entertain you in my room. But please, don't try to "take care" of me. Let me retain some dignity in my old age.

GETTING THERE

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You goofed when you referred to the marriage of the 40-year-old nurse to a 22-year-old man as a "May-December" marriage. It's scarcely September for us gals in our forties.

BONZAI TREES — The history of Bonzai arrangements was explained at a recent meeting of Tongore Garden Club in the Olive Free Library Community Room. It was the club's first meeting in the new spring season. Conducting the program were Mrs. Carol Cohen and Mrs. Carol Charles of DUSO Bonzai Company in Ellenville. On hand for the meeting were (L-R) Mrs. Elmer Olsen; Mrs. Morris Kwit, club president; Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Charles. The guest speakers specialize in Bonzai — an ancient art which originated with the Chinese but is now associated with the Japanese. In other Tongore activities, the members will sponsor a field trip on May 10 to the Bird House at the Bronx Botanical Garden; an exhibit and unit in the Sesquicentennial Parade, May 28; and a flower show in August. The club is also serving as co-host for the April 26 New York State Federation of Garden Clubs meeting in the Holiday Inn, Kingston.

CDA Activities Are Noted

A slate of officers was presented and the annual Communion Breakfast was discussed at the April 12 meeting of Catholic Daughters of America, Court Santa Maria No. 164.

Nominations include Catherine Haines, regent; Emily Spada, first vice regent; Elizabeth McDonough, second vice regent; Emma Sangaline, financial secretary; Ida Hoehing, treasurer; Lucille Nau, recording secretary; Helen Beaver, monitor; Dolores Grier, lecturer; Katherine Sweeney, organist; Rose Turck, Margaret Mitchell and Veronica Hanley, trustees. Members of the nominating committee were Margaret Mitchell, Helen Van Steenbergh, Marie Dobkins, Antoinette Brocco, and Carmela Bayona.

Rose Turck and Emma Sangaline, chairman of the Communion Breakfast, announced that the breakfast will be served at Knights of Columbus Hall, Sunday, May 6, after 8 o'clock Mass in St. Colman's Church, East Kingston. Mayor Francis Koenig will be guest speaker.

An invitation was extended to the Court to attend the 25th anniversary of the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly of St. Mary's Church. The event is planned for Sunday, May 6.

The sum of $75 was donated to the Knights of Columbus for their 75th anniversary.

The Rev. Anthony Labau, SJ, and Miss Betty Dodt of the Xavier Society for the Blind of the National Catholic Press and Library, New York City, presented a program of slides and spoke about the work being done by hundreds of volunteers for the visually handicapped. Volunteers do Braille, large typing or tape recording and transform books into master copies, under the supervision of the Xavier Society. Additional volunteers are needed.

Catherine Haines, regent, presided at the business meeting. Mass was celebrated by Chaplain, the Rev. Msgr. Thomas E. Mullins, who spoke about the meaning of Holy Week.

Refreshments were served by Veronica Hanley, Catherine Haines, Helen Beaver, Rose Turck and Mary Dubois.

The next business meeting will be held Thursday, May 10.

La Leche League Meeting April 24

"Nutrition and Weaning" will be topics of discussion when the Kingston La Leche League meets Tuesday, Apr. 24, at the home of Mrs. Jerry Leatherman, 261 Pearl Street, Kingston. Mrs. Pan Usticke, a qualified La Leche League leader, will moderate the informal talk which is the fourth in the continually repeating series of four meetings.

As a breastfeeding organization, the League believes that in the early months breast milk alone is the most nutritious food for infants.

Weaning a baby is the process which begins with the introduction of solid foods, foods that are healthful and appetizing but not a burden on mothers to prepare. Refreshments at the meeting will be examples of the snacks suggested during the discussion. Many of the recipes will be from "Mother's in the Kitchen," a LLL cookbook geared to preparing nutritious meals with a minimum effort. Also available for sale or loan will be "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding," the official League manual.

Mrs. Usticke and Mrs. Ruth Scogna, the other LLL leader, are available for telephone counseling on the non-medical questions of breastfeeding. Any medical questions will be referred to a physician.

LIONS NAME JUDGES — Approximately 125 booths will be included in the upcoming Lions Club Expo come May 1st and Bernard Farrell, at right, chairman of booth awards, has announced that nine winning plaques will be awarded. Serving as judges this year with Mr. Farrell will be (L-R) Richard M. Kalish, a past president of Lions; and Dorothy A. Narel, woman's page editor of The Daily Freeman. Booths will be judged for general appeal and interest, creativity and originality, special effects including lighting, color and arrangement; and responsiveness to the 1973 theme "Spring Festival." Judging will be done on May 1st just prior to the official opening of the exposition. A record attendance is expected. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Speaker for May Fellowship Day

MRS. HERBERT DRATZ

May Fellowship Day will be celebrated by Church Women, United on May 4, at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone Sts. at 11 a.m. Luncheon Tickets may be obtained from any church representative and a nursery will be provided for those young mothers who might wish to attend.

Mrs. Herbert Dratz of Catskill will be the featured speaker. Mrs. Dratz is a past regent of On-Ti-Ora Chapter, DAR, a member of the NYS DAR speakers' staff and is N.Y. State DAR Custodian. She has given talks to various church, literary and historical groups.

This year's theme, "As Hand Touches Hand," will celebrate the spirit of Christian women as they reach out in volunteer services in their local communities.

Since the first May Fellowship Day observances in 1933 it has been traditional for church women across the country to use the first Friday in May to emphasize the creative and healing relations that are possible among people in every community. Each year, Church Women United has found new ways to express God's love for all people through just relationships in society.

This May Fellowship Day will be a salute to the volunteers from local units of Church Women United who have initiated programs in health care, in education for children and adults, in services to the aging and to the imprisoned. Volunteers are working as monitors of legislation, as advocates for self-help programs, and as educators of consumerism, ecology peacebuilding, international trade and human rights.

In addition, for the past eight years, Church Women United has been a major partner in WICS (Women in Community Service), which is the nation-wide coalition of women's groups dedicated to helping young women from poverty backgrounds to achieve a fuller life. Volunteers have channeled more than 49,000 young women into the Job Corps and provided supportive services to 220,000 others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can handle tasks easily if you go ahead and act cheerfully instead of deliberating so much. Seek the right clothing that makes you look more refined. Stay within your budget.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use astuteness in handling family affairs now and get good results. Clear up a condition that is not good at all. Don't act as though you know it all or you will receive illwill from friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Dealing in a conscientious fashion with others is the best way to get good results now. Keep any information given you in confidence. You can easily make a good impression on others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who thinks straight and talks straight and you can afford. An urge to has realistic ideas. Give as much academic education as travel should be satisfied early in life so your progeny can easily settle down to whatever stable field is decided upon as a career endeavor.

WHY WE SAY

UNDERHANDED

CARDS: In 16th-century England when playing cards were in general use this term for one who does something dishonest came into being. It alludes to the card player who slips extra cards under his regular hand to win a pot.

Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

PARTY: (Q.) We are four girls, ages 13 and 14; we are too young to drive and too old to play dolls. We're at a very boring age.

Last fall we were cheerleaders for a 16 and 17-year-old football team, and we went to the team party in December. We had crushes on nearly all the team members. The guys were also sort of tipsy, and since we were the only girls there, they used us to have their fun.

That night we thought they were serious, but now we realize they were just letting off steam at our expense.

Without football, life is more boring than ever now. What we are trying to say is, we like these guys a lot, even though we probably don't have much of a chance with them. Could you please give us some advice on how we might get these guys to pay attention to us in a serious way? — Bored in Maryland.

(A.) You do not say exactly what happened at the team party. Whatever it was, it was too much, and you four are fortunate that you got through it with as little damage as you did.

You may be old enough to be cheerleaders for a high-school-age football team. But you are hardly old enough to be serious girl friends for 11 or more boys of 16 or 17.

Face this fact and look around you for younger boys who won't be sophisticated but who will be healthier and safer to be friendly with. They will also help to make your life less boresome.

RED SKIN, WHITE SKIN: (Q.) I read the letter from the "Indian" who said he was not offended when white-skin people wear our styles or mock our customs. I consider this "Indian" to be really an apple—red on the outside and white on the inside.

I strongly object to the way we are portrayed on TV and in movies. We're not all that bad at fighting. We have our ways and the white people have theirs. Let's keep it that way. —All Indian in Oklahoma.

(A.) Be proud that you are an Indian. But do not let your pride keep you from learning and improving yourself. Non-Indians living here in America have learned much from the Indians, and vice versa. Let's keep it that way, and keep trying to make life better for all the different kinds of people--including Indians—who live here.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001)

Presley Practice Pays Off

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Some performers, in their attempts to remain popular, appear frequently on television. Elvis Presley takes the opposite approach, doing only rare video shows.

And the latest television ratings illustrate the effectiveness of the Presley practice for his career. The singer, whose popularity is sustained in great part by a brilliant managing of his projects, came in No. 1 among all entries in the national video rankings with his recent 90-minute NBC-TV special.

He beat out the nation's most popular series, CBS-TV's "All In The Family," by a solid margin in the ratings for the week ending April 8, although the CBS-TV show still finished atop every other program but Presley's.

In an age of overkill, it is instructive to note that exclusivity still has some value, and the ratings show this to be a fact. For in addition to the potent rankings of Presley in a rare appearance, there was the hour NBC-TV special by Ann-Margret, who also has only occasional video outings, and who came in third.

The Presley and Ann-Margret specials, by the way, were both presented on the same night in a shrewd bit of scheduling by NBC-TV.

The same network had further cause to be satisfied by the ratings showing of another entry seen only occasionally—the classic movie "The Wizard of Oz," which, while broadcast virtually annually, nonetheless maintains an aura of exclusivity because it is not run into the ground by video in between these special outings.

According to the national ratings, "The Wizard of Oz" came in fifth. This is remarkable when one considers that the film has already been seen by so many viewers.

On the heels of the strong ratings results of the Presley and Ann-Margret specials, NBC-TV has announced the signing of another performer only rarely seen in television productions, Bill Holden.

The durable actor is scheduled to star on the network next season in a four-part "mini-series" dramatization of the bestselling novel "The Blue Knight," by policeman-author Joseph Wambaugh, who also wrote another well-known book, "The New Centurions."

According to the network's summary of its plans for "The Blue Knight," Holden will play "Bumper Morgan, a Los Angeles policeman nearing retirement. The story focuses on Morgan's last days on the

Here is a hand which Rixi Markus played at a mere six hearts. Seven hearts which made easily is clearly the correct contract and Rixi is entirely correct when she blames her partner for failure to reach the grand slam.

Rixi feels that her partner could well have afforded to use Blackwood and then place the contract in the grand slam, but she also suggests something that we believe is one of the most important features of a correct bidding opposite a strong hand.

She points out that North should have responded three hearts, not two spades. The chance that spades would become the final contract was very small; the chance that the spade bid would misinform partner was tremendous.

Now look how simple the bidding would be after the immediate heart raise. South could bid four clubs but there would be little need for wasting time.

South's hand would be perfect for a five no-trump grand slam force. This expert bid invented 40 years ago by Ely Culbertson asks partner to bid seven with two of the three top trump honors. North has them and would bid it.

Nixon Submits New Sharing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today sends Congress his proposed legislation replacing numerous specific community-aid programs with $2.3 billion a year in special revenue-sharing funds.

"This aid will have no strings attached as long as it is used for community development," Nixon said last month in announcing his special revenue sharing proposal.

"Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington was spending it if they like. But they would also be free to work out better plans without having to get Washington's approval," he continued.

Nixon said the measure is intended to replace what he called "inflexible and fragmented" categorical grant-in-aid programs such as Model Cities and urban renewal plus projects providing grants for water and sewer projects, demolition, neighborhood facilities and rehabilitation work.

Nixon first proposed the community development legislation in 1971 but failed to muster enough support in either the House or the Senate.

Among features of his new proposal are:

—The money for cities and urban counties would be based on a formula reflecting community needs and there would be assurances that this would not be less than received under the previous programs.

—Funding would be provided for smaller communities.

—While activities now supported by categorical grants may be continued, local leaders would determine whether to do so.

—Recipients would be required to show the federal government only that they are complying with federal statutes in the way they are spending revenue-sharing money.

—Shared revenues would not have to be matched by local funds.

While the Better Communities Act would replace seven Housing and Urban Development categorical programs it would not affect HUD's housing and community planning authority.

The administration said a large share of the total funds appropriated annually under the act—about 78 per cent by the fifth year at a $2.3 billion level—would be allocated and made available directly to all central cities in metropolitan areas; all cities over 50,000 population, and all urban counties with a population of over 200,000.

Wounded Knee Impasse

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Negotiations between the government and the occupiers of Wounded Knee were at a standstill today following a government warning that federal officers would respond quickly to a repeat of Tuesday's exchange of gunfire.

"The position of the U.S. marshals is that they will not subject themselves to that kind of planned assault on all positions at once without returning fire more quickly," said Stanley Pottinger, the chief federal negotiator at the Pine Ridge Reservation village.

At least two persons were injured in the gunfire exchange Tuesday that Pottinger described as "a dangerous and significant turn of events."

One remained in very critical condition and unconscious in a Rapid City, S.D., hospital following brain surgery. He was tentatively identified as Frank Clearwater, a Cherokee from Oklahoma. Pottinger said the identification was not confirmed and came from persons inside Wounded Knee.

The last time formal negotiations to end the confrontation were held between the government and the Indian occupiers was last Tuesday. Pottinger said no more were scheduled.

Soviet Drops Tax on Jews

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has told the White House it has suspend indefinitely the collection of heavy education taxes applied to Jews leaving the country, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Wednesday.

Scott said Congress should be satisfied with the suspension of the controversial exit tax. He warned that further steps to penalize the Soviets by passing restrictive trade legislation could endanger newly improved relations.

Critics of the Soviet Union's exit tax said they were not satisfied.

They questioned the good faith of the Soviet Union and said they would press for passage of an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., denying "most-favored-nation" treatment to the Soviet Union if President Nixon does not periodically certify that the exit tax has ceased to apply.

Scott said he got his news from Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign policy advisor.

Five Hit, Three Dead

A Shooting Spree on Houston Streets

HOUSTON (UPI) — A rifleman drove through a middle class neighborhood shooting at passersby Wednesday, hitting five persons and killing three. An Army veteran high on marijuana and beer confessed to the shootings hours later.

"There was an old woman standing in front of a house. I pulled up and stopped. I aimed at her neck and fired. She fell to the driveway," said Larry Delon Casey, 21, who was charged with the slayings.

The dead were an elderly woman and two school girls walking home. The two wounded victims were children who were hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Casey told police his father was killed in New York in 1970 by heroin addicts.

"I guess I had some revenge against society," he said. He told police he did not know any of the victims.

Newsmen Sign Confession

Two United Press International newsmen signed Casey's confession as legal witnesses. Casey said he went home and got his mother's bolt action .22 caliber rifle after having a fight with his girlfriend, Yvonne Ellis, 19. He said he had smoked four marijuana cigarettes and drank a six-pack of beer.

"Me and Yvonne had just had some arguments. I guess I went out of my head for a few minutes," Casey said. "I qualified as an expert with a rifle while in the Army.

"I drove into a neighborhood and fired at the first person I saw (the woman)," he said. "Then I saw a kid on a bicycle, pulling into a driveway. I was about 75 yards away when I stopped the car. I fired one time and she fell dead. I do not remember shooting anyone else."

During questioning, Casey also confessed to the February shooting death of Dorothy J. Young, a clerk in an all-night drive-in grocery.

"I had just robbed her and was leaving the store when I heard what sounded like her cocking back the hammer on a pistol. I was in the doorway and spun around and fired instantly and hit her in the chest.

Made Sure She Was Dead

"Then I went over and shot her twice in the head to make sure she was dead," Casey said.

Casey, a 6-foot-2 white man with short hair, straggly beard and bloodshot eyes, was on probation for a burglary committed last August when he was arrested for Wednesday's shootings.

"I'm sorry I did it—what else can I say? I wouldn't have done it if Yvonne had not left the car mad," he said.

"I wasn't shooting at the kid. I was shooting at the bicycle. I was surprised to find out later I hit her. I thought at the time I had missed. I knew I was a better shot than that. I was aiming at the back wheels, trying to turn the bicycle over," Casey told police.

The dead were Beulah Davis, 86, Jana Whatley, 10, and Clare Jakubowski, 5. The wounded, both 10-year-old girls, were Karen Kurtz, shot in the leg, and Lynn Tucker, shot in the back and arm.

Meany Recalls Brennan Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany has recalled a top AFL-CIO official serving on Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan's staff. It was the latest move in Meany's continuing feud with his former labor associate.

Robert M. McGlotten is expected to resign as a special assistant to Brennan and return to his $22,000-a-year job as assistant director of the AFL-CIO's civil rights department.

"He will be back on the payroll Monday," an AFL-CIO spokesman said.

Brennan's press secretary, Thomas J. Costigan, said he knew nothing about it. "We have not received any resignation," Costigan said.

McGlotten had been on an indefinite leave of absence from the AFL-CIO since January. Meany, AFL-CIO president, had sent McGlotten to the Labor Department at Brennan's request, a federation spokesman said.

At Labor, McGlotten was earning more than $30,000.

"It's a meeting of the minds between George Meany and Bob McGlotten because of the events of last week," the AFL-CIO spokesman said when asked why McGlotten was returning.

The spat started two weeks ago with Meany accusing Brennan of selling out his trade union principles over the administration's minimum wage proposal, which would give teenagers a lower wage than adults for the same work.

President Nixon even was drawn into the feud, defending his labor secretary as a "team player ... who never sells out on anything."
